ADMIRAL AZNAR FORMS CABINET AND TAKES OATH

Government Is Coalition Pledging Support to Spanish Monarchy TROOPS ARE REPLACED Several Outbreaks on Streets of Madrid Are Stopped by Guards

Madrid—(AP)—After four days of political turmoil and uncertainty, Spain today had a new monarchist cabinet, avoiding revolution on the one hand and dictatorship on the other.

Either of those possibilities had seemed imminent, but now it is believed that the tense atmosphere of the past week will be cleared and that the situation is once more tranquil, at least for the time being.

The fundamental causes of all the trouble of the past year still exist, however, and opposition to the monarchy probably will be renewed when the time is ripe.

Admiral Juan Bautista Aznar, the oldest ranking officer in the Spanish navy and generally regarded as a neutral in politics, succeeded where Jose Sanchez Guerra and Melquiades had failed. This afternoon he brought a new cabinet to the royal palace and its members were sworn in before the king.

The cabinet is composed entirely of extreme right monarchists, with representatives of the Conservatives, the Liberals and Catalan independents.

The Count de Bugalla, minister of economy, is chief of the conservative party. Juan Ventosa, minister of finance, is a right hand man of Cambó. The Barcelona financier who is father of the Catalan group.

Interior—Marquis de Hoyos. Justice—Marquis Aliquem. Foreign affairs—Count de Romanones.

This list leaves vacant the ministry of marine and the ministry of instruction. Admiral Aznar himself temporarily will act as minister of marine, but both portfolios are expected to be filled shortly.

The admiral, it was said in official circles, is in poor health and was in bed for the heavy task of forming the new government.

RED CROSS LEADER APPEALS FOR HELP TO REACH QUOTA

A very few dollars were added to the Red Cross drought relief subscriptions since yesterday morning and the total this noon was only $769, with about $225 still to go to reach the $1,000 quota.

With the drought situation, serious as it is and the aid that is being given by both the Red Cross and government hardly adequate for the situation, Outagamie county must respond more generously to the appeal for help.

Checks should be sent to the Post-Crescent or to the county chapter. They should be made payable to the Red Cross.

The following, in addition to those previously named, have made contributions: William R. Johnston, Jack and Billy Leonard, C. Francis Jenkins, John Frampton, Jr.

NEW STRIKES BACK AT FORMER ASSISTANT

Washington—(AP)—Former Postmaster General New today defended vigorously his conduct in connection with postal leases and revealed that relations between himself and his first assistant, John H. Bartlett, were badly strained.

Butler Predicts Al Capone Will Be Deported To Italy

South Bend, Ind.—(AP)—Alphonse Capone, Chicago's gangland chief, will be deported to Italy when public opinion is aroused, it was predicted by Mayor George Smiley D. Butler in an address here last night.

The remark was one of a few referring indirectly to the Mussolini-Batler imbroglio made before the knife and fork club, whose members are addressed on the subject of the causes and cures of crime.

FINANCE GROUP VOTES TO SEND BILL TO SENATE

Approves Bill Without Change, 13 to 3, Despite "Serious Objections"

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Two of the vital appropriations measures which must be passed before the March 4 adjournment to avoid an extra session were completed by the senate today with adoption of the conference reports on the legislative and agriculture bills.

Washington—(AP)—The Veterans Loan Relief bill was speeded on its way in the senate today over a vigorous protest from President Hoover.

After hearing a series of "serious objections" from the president, the finance committee voted 13 to 3 to report the measure without change as it passed the house.

A few minutes later the senate agreed to take up the bill tomorrow and prediction was made by Senator Harrison, Democrat, Mississippi, that the bill would be completed by tonight tomorrow and sent on its way to the White House.

A veto against the measure, senators asserted, but there was no sign that the necessary one-third votes to sustain the veto were in sight despite the vigorous protest made by the president.

The administration offered to take a bill which would allow the 50 per cent loans on the bonus insurance certificates to those veterans actually in need. This was rejected by the finance committee.

Republican Leader Watson joined in support of the measure in the committee after a series of amendments and a substitute bill had been turned down.

Senators Cuzens of Michigan, La Follette of Wisconsin, and Thomas of Idaho joined the Democrats in committee rejecting all amendments.

Under-Secretary Mills informed the senators the treasury would "absolutely be forced" to float a bond issue to meet the involvements of the loan measure as it stands.

Mills testified he believed the veteran "with gumption" would take advantage of the 42 interest to make the loans and "make some money."

"The average veteran without gumption would take advantage of it anyway," he added.

"You are going to make a difficult situation for the treasury," he said.

Actor Dies

LOUIS WOLHEIM

L. Wolheim, Bad Man Of Films, Dies

Los Angeles—(AP)—Louis Wolheim, bad man of the screen but beloved film character of Hollywood, died at 6 o'clock a. m. today.

Death followed an operation on Monday. His condition had been reported satisfactory until a few hours before death. He was about 40 years of age.

He was suffering from an abdominal ailment brought about by a strict diet which he had followed to reduce his weight for a part in a picture. When he entered the hospital he had lost about 30 pounds.

After the operation, an attending physician, Dr. Clarence Hopkins, said a condition had been disclosed which might necessitate another operation when the actor recovered but death came as he tried to regain his strength.

The actor was one of the best known personages in the film colony. He followed in the paths of Lon Chaney and other great character actors, although he never attained their brilliance.

Despite his scarred and glowering countenance which won him his place in pictures as a villain, he had a tender heart and a host of friends.

5 REPORTED KILLED WHEN MINE ROOF FALLS

Scranton, Pa.—(AP)—Five men were reported to have been crushed to death today in a cave-in of roof in the Powderly mine of the Hudson Coal company at Carbondale. One man escaped. Officials refused to give out information on the accident. Rescuers were making efforts to reach the five men believed killed.

COMPROMISE TO END FIGHT OVER MUSCLE SHOALS

Deadlock Between Senate and House Is Broken After Decade

Washington—(AP)—The ten year old deadlock between house and senate over Muscle Shoals legislation was definitely broken today.

The senate conferees and a majority of the house managers signed a compromise agreement for operation of the government's $150,000,000 power and nitrate plant and the report will be submitted to the house tomorrow.

The agreement provides for government operation of the power plant, lease of the nitrate plants for production of fertilizer and by-products if possible and government construction of power transmission lines for distribution of electricity from Wilson Dam.

Nature of Compromise The compromise provides that the lessee of the nitrate plant can obtain 15 per cent of the amount of power used in production of fertilizer for manufacture of electro-chemical products off the government reservation and as much secondary power as the president decides is fair and equitable.

The conferees retained the provision of the original senate bill for construction by the government of the Cove creek dam on the Clinch river.

The agreement was signed by Senators McNary, Oregon, and Smith, Nebraska, Republicans, and Morris, Democrat, South Carolina, and Representatives Warrick, Republican, Texas; Fisher, Tennessee, and Quinn, Mississippi, Democrats.

Representative Reice, Republican, Tennessee, said he would decide before the report is submitted tomorrow whether he will sign.

The fifth member of the house committee, Ramsey, Republican, Pennsylvania, refused to sign.

Under the compromise the president will have one year after enactment of the bill in which to negotiate a lease for the nitrate plants. If he fails to obtain a lease within that time the government will operate the plant for experimental production of fertilizer.

New Delhi, India—(AP)—Mahatma Gandhi and Lord Irwin, the viceroy of India, talked together for three hours this afternoon, seeking a way out of India's political difficulties.

Gandhi appeared cheerful as he left the viceregal palace, remarking, "The issues are still in the clouds. I am not coming back tomorrow."

Trio Holds Up Bristol Bank, Takes $5,000

Kenosha—(AP)—Armed with a machine gun and revolvers, three masked men held up the Home State bank at Bristol, Wis., ten miles west of here, shortly after noon today kidnaped Cashier Clifford Jacobs and escaped with approximately $5,000 in currency.

The robbers walked into the bank at about 1 o'clock a. m. and ordered the cashier and his father, Laurian Jacobs, president, and two customers to face the wall. One of the robbers carried a machine gun and stood guard while his two companions, armed with revolvers, proceeded to usher their victims into the vault.

Clarence and Andrew Hansen, the patrons, were forced to lie down on the floor of the vault beside the bank president and his son. Meantime, one of the robbers was scooping up all available cash in the cash drawers and vault.

In leaving the robbers ordered the cashier to accompany them. With a revolver pointed at his back he walked to an automobile parked nearby and was driven about a mile south of Bristol where he was pushed out of the machine. The robber's machine proceeded southward. Witnesses said it carried Illinois license plates.

While Cashier Jacobs was hurriedly returning to the bank, Sheriff Steve Robinson had organized a posse which was touring the southern part of the county in search of the robbers and the kidnaped cashier. Authorities in northern Illinois were asked to watch for the fleeing robbers.

PASS BILL ALLOWING LAWYERS FOR TRIBE

Browne Measure on Indian Timber Assets Wins Senate Approval

Washington—(AP)—The senate late Tuesday passed the bill introduced by Representative Edward E. Browne of Waukegan authorizing the Menominee Indians to employ general attorneys at $6,000 a year for two years with $5,000 expenses, to work out legal matters connected with the tribe's assets of timber, land and water power and its claims against the government.

The senate struck out the amendment introduced by Representative John C. Schafer of Milwaukee, and passed by the house, prohibiting the tribe's employment of Louis R. Glavis as an attorney. Schafer said that Glavis, who is employed by the senate Indian affairs committee, is a lobbyist.

The bill must now go back to the house for agreement on the elimination of the amendment before it goes to the president.

The bill was sponsored in the senate by Senator Robert M. La Follette, Republican, Wisconsin, who said he understood the tribe planned to press claims against the government on grounds that under Indian direction, was "cutting" rather than sustained yield methods were used in marketing timber.

DRY LEAGUE ATTACKS WAGNER'S STATEMENT

Washington—(AP)—Proposals of Senator Wagner that the eighteenth amendment be repealed, with assurance that the saloon will not come back, were labeled "inconsistent" today by Anti-Saloon league leaders.

"If the eighteenth amendment is repealed, the saloon will come back," the league said in a formal statement. "Senator Wagner and others now opposed to the saloon should be reminded that prohibition laws did not outlaw the saloon but merely outlawed the liquor which gave life to the saloon."

FIVE BANDITS CAUGHT 3 HOURS AFTER HOLD-UP

$1,068 Stolen at State Bank, Recovered by Authorities

3 FOUND AT FARM HOUSE Other Two Companions Arrested Later by Police on Highway 47

Within three hours after the Freedom State bank in the village of Freedom was robbed of $1,068 shortly after 10 o'clock Wednesday morning, five young men, who gave their addresses as Chicago and St. Louis, were arrested by Appleton police, Sheriff John Lappen, and deputy sheriffs.

The men apprehended gave the following names and addresses: John E. Brooks, 22, 1863 Wentworth-ave, Chicago, Ill.; Stephen Nash, 32, Chicago; Theodore Charles, 1416 La Mar-st., St. Louis, Mo.; Jack Charles, East St. Louis, Mo.; and Frank Goretz, 1403 Wentworth-ave, Chicago.

Goretz gave his age as 15 years. Jack Charles said he was 16. Authorities believe that all the young men gave fictitious names and addresses.

Two members of the gang entered the bank at approximately 10:10 this morning and presented the cashier, Charles Behling, with a check drawn on a Chicago bank.

Upon seeing that Behling was questioning the validity of the check, one of the bandits drew a revolver and shoved it through the cage, commanding Behling and his wife, who is taller, to "put up your hands."

Behling refused to obey, whereupon the robber said, "Throw up your hands, I mean business. Turn around and face the wall."

While Mr. and Mrs. Behling were held off at the point of the revolver, the other bandit scooped up all money in the drawer, and then entered the vault where he grabbed all the cash in sight.

The pair then dashed out of the bank, jumped into a Chevrolet sedan bearing the 1930 Illinois license plates, 1,405-441, in which a man was sitting behind the wheel and sped west on the highway toward Black Creek.

Mr. Behling immediately summoned aid and Frank Murphy, a Freedom farmer, and his helper, William Siwert, gathering up three guns a pistol and two rifles from a nearby soft drink parlor, went in pursuit.

Mr. Behling then summoned Sheriff Lappen and the Appleton police department, who immediately left for Freedom. Chief George T. Prim and Officer Albert Deltgen taking one route over 47 and Sheriff Lappen and his deputies taking routes through Apple Creek and Little Chute.

Jump From Car The car raced to the Log Cabin Inn at Bailey's Corners on Highway 47, where one bandit jumped from the car with the loot. Here he was joined by two more companions.

Two of the men then sped south on Highway 47 toward Appleton, while the other three, who are believed to be friends of William Clausen, proprietor of the roadhouse, sped from the roadhouse in a car driven by Clausen toward the town of Ellington, where they were arrested at 1245 in the cellar of the Louis Clausen farm home. Louis Clausen is the father of the roadhouse proprietor. William Clausen is being held at the jail pending further investigation by Sheriff Lappen.

Byllesby Counsel Denies Company Involved In Bribe Charges

HAGENAH SAYS RAHLE ASKED NOT TO LOBBY

Says Former Assemblyman
leged Bribery Offer

Madison—(P)—During a three-hour hearing before a special senate committee here last night, W. J. Hagenah, counsel and vice president of the Byllesby Engineering and Management corporation, testified that his company was in no way involved in the alleged attempt to bribe a senator for his vote on pending public utility legislation.

The committee, headed by Sen. Walter Goodland, Racine, was scheduled to meet again tonight to investigate further Gov. LaFollette's charge that an attempt had been made to bribe Sen. P. J. Smith, Eau Claire.

Daniel Grady, appointed by Gov. LaFollette as special counsel, directed the questioning of several witnesses. Hagenah told him and the committee that he had warned former Assemblyman Paul Rahle, Chippewa Falls, to have nothing to do with pending utility bills. Rahle serves as local counsel for the Northern States Power Co., a Byllesby subsidiary.

Hagenah testified that Rahle had visited him at his hotel on the night the alleged attempt was made to bribe Sen. Smith and that Rahle had informed him that the senator's mind was not yet made up regarding the power bills. He also divulged the fact that former Assemblyman Ethan B. Minier, New Richmond, recovered a retainer from the Northern States Power Co. Both Minier and Rahle are paid only to aid him in taxation matters, he said.

Tells of Visit to Smith
Minier told about the visit he and Rahle had made to Sen. Smith's room. Rahle, he said, asked him to leave the room by writing a note to that effect on the margin of a newspaper. Asked whether Rahle had requested that he give special testimony before the committee Minier said:

"Just one thing. He said, 'I don't want it known that I brought the whisky.' That was all."
"Why didn't he want to know that he brought whisky to Sen. Smith's room?"
"Well, he has always been known as a prohibitionist at home," Minier replied as the room swept with laughter.

Sen. Goodland and Minier tangled after the senator wanted to know why Minier had told Charles B. Perry, speaker of the assembly, and William Irvine, Madison publisher, the details of his visit to Smith's room.

"Why didn't you come to a member of this committee with this instead of going to a couple of politicians?" Sen. Goodland asked.
"I resent that, Mr. Chairman," said Minier. "Mr. Perry is not any

OFFICER JOHNSON HURT WHEN HE FALLS ON ICE

Appleton police department is minus one officer today as result of an injury to Officer Frank Johnson about 8:30 Tuesday night. The injured policeman was given medical attention and taken to his home.

OIL STATION AT IOLA ENTERED BY THIEVES

Waupaca authorities Wednesday morning were investigating the burglary of the Inter-State Oil company bulk station at Iola Tuesday night. The thieves broke the lock on a door. Company employees were checking receipts and supplies Wednesday to learn how much had been taken. The station is located near the Green Bay and Western depot at Iola.

more of a politician than you are and be a lot more honorable."

Minier Apologizes
"Well," said Sen. Goodland, "now I want to ask the committee if they want that kind of language used. I will not have anyone come before this committee and say things like that."

At the request of Sen. Herman Severson, Iola, a member of the committee, Minier apologized.
James Vance, town of Anson supervisor, testified that he had secured the signatures to several batches of telegrams sent to Sen. Smith urging him to vote against the power bills. He said his district received a large tax from the utility companies and that the entire population opposed any change that would jeopardize this income. He said the school district would stand the expense of sending the telegrams.

C. L. Richardson, clerk of the town of Eagle Point, said the town board had authorized Rahle to represent Eagle Point during the legislative session. Eagle Point, like Anson, profits through the utility tax and is anxious to have the power bills defeated, Richardson said.

Clarence Balts, chairman of the town of Anson, said the town board paid Rahle $100 for his work before legislative committees. He said no power company had requested that Rahle be retained.

The senate chambers, where the hearing was held last night, was crowded to the doors and had the appearance of being the setting for an important trial. No less than eight attorneys were grouped around the committee table. Sen. Severson and Sen. Eugene Clifford, both members of the committee, are lawyers. In addition to Attorney Grady, legal counsel at the hearing included Attorney General John Reynolds and Deputy Attorney General Fred Wyllie; H. H. Thomas and Robert Rieser, representing Mr. Hagenah, and Carl Hill, Madison attorney, who represented Mr. Vance.

BOARD EXPECTS FIGHT ON DANCE HALL ORDINANCE

Supervisors Squabble Over
Terms of County's New Regulatory Laws

The old and vexatious question of the county dance hall ordinance popped into the opening session of the Outagamie-co board yesterday afternoon and caused a rift which may bring a keener fight than the one expected over the proposed new courthouse.

It seems, from the remarks of at least two of the supervisors, Anton Jansen, Little Chute, and August Laabs, Grand Chute, that the dance hall ordinance is discriminatory and must be changed. Supervisor Jansen offered an amendment which would provide that villages and towns of their own will not be subject to the provisions of the county ordinance. It was these two supervisors who blocked passage of the ordinance for at least a time last November, when they insisted that more consideration be given the matter.

Supervisor T. H. Ryan, Appleton, agreed with Jansen and Laabs, that perhaps the law is a bit discriminatory, but his suggestion for a change was that the county board should seek an amendment to the state law, which would give the county jurisdiction over cities as well as villages and towns.

The main point of contention at present seems to be that Little Chute and Grand Chute feel they are being discriminated against because they must abide by the county dance hall ordinance while the law exempts the cities from this regulation, providing the city has a local regulatory measure.

No Enforcement?
During the arguments, Supervisor John Niesen demanded to know why the provisions of the present ordinance were not being enforced. He said he had been told there was evidence of violations with no prosecutions. He said he was not attempting to criticize anyone, but he wanted a measure which would protect the morals of the county. Supervisor

John Knapstein, a member of the dance hall license committee, said the regulations were provided to protect boys and girls of the county, and that unless all the supervisors got behind the measure it might just as well be dropped.

Most of the talking was done by Supervisors Jansen and Laabs, with Jansen referring frequently to statutes and opinions of the attorney general. Jansen claimed they proved the present county ordinance is unfair and discriminatory.

On motion of Mr. Laabs the board voted to have the district attorney and sheriff confer with county officials throughout this district to determine whether all the counties can adopt similar dance hall ordinances and provide a uniform regulation in all the counties. It was Supervisor Laabs who pointed out that it would be rather silly for this county to close its dance halls and roadhouses at 12:30, only to send these patrons to roadhouses in counties nearby.

What Is Roadhouse?
The board members also seem somewhat confused over just what constitutes a roadhouse. Supervisors Jansen and Laabs made a great point of this matter when they fought the dance hall ordinance last November. They made a great point of it again yesterday. They demanded of all and sundry to kindly define for them the word roadhouse. They claimed that before the ordinance can become effective, it must state what a roadhouse is, and thus reach directly at these places.

Discussion on the matter finally closed when Joseph Sandhofer, Kimberly, chairman of the dance license committee, pointed out that his committee was to meet Wednesday afternoon and would be prepared to make a report to the supervisors Thursday on the ordinance.

By a unanimous vote the board appropriated $650 for the Children's Home Finding association. Reading of bills paid by committee and of resolutions from other county boards, occupied the balance of the session.

Valley Cities To Air Views On Lake Winnebago Level Question

EXPECT FIGHT AT HEARING IN MENASHA HALL

Lower Valley Cities to Battle for Raise—Upper Valley Wants Lower Level

Officials from practically every city in the Fox river valley are expected to gather at the city hall at Menasha Tuesday afternoon, Feb. 24, to present their views on the level of Lake Winnebago. Major H. M. Trippe, head of the corps of engineers at the war department offices at Milwaukee, will have charge of the hearing, which is expected to aid the government in determining its policy on the lake level question.

This matter has been a sore spot with all the valley cities for years, although it remained for the drought last summer to bring matters to a head. The low water which resulted during the dry spell resulted in an offensive odor from the lower Fox river, which passes through the cities of Neenah, Menasha, Appleton, Kaukauna, De Pere and Green Bay and the villages of Little Chute, Kimberly, Combined Locks and Wrightstown. In addition to the stinking water at Appleton, which is taken from the river, was noticeably flavored by the growth of weeds in the stale river water. The authorities feared this might result in an outbreak of disease. Many summer homes had to be abandoned because of the stench. Thousands of fish were killed, and some factories, depending on the river for water power, were forced either to abandon or curtail operations. Navigation was affected.

The battle is in main the facts which will be placed before the war department by the lower valley cities when they ask that the recent ruling which raises the level of the lake from 15 to 21 inches above the crest of the dam at Menasha, be maintained.

Approve Raise
On the other side will be the cities of Oshkosh and Fond du Lac and the Association for the Relief of High Water, with headquarters at Oshkosh. These will demand that the department rescind its recent order and restore the lake level to 15 inches.

Oshkosh and Fond du Lac maintain that raising the level will cause irreparable damage to sewer systems, which were constructed on the basis of a 15-inch level. They also claim hundreds of property owners living in the vicinity of the lake would be damaged by floods resulting from the higher level. The water association at Oshkosh, composed of riparian land owners along the lake and on the upper Fox and Wolf rivers, will present its evidence to show the higher level will mean the loss of thousands of dollars to its members because of floods.

Alan H. Tripp, Oshkosh, head of the water association, brands the claims of the lower valley cities as a higher level, as an attempt on the part of "water power" interests to secure more rights.

The fight over the lake level has resulted in the organization of the Fox River Valley Municipalities association, with Mayor B. W. Fargo of Kaukauna, as its head. The association will take an active part in the fight. The organization was formed when the valley cities met recently and petitioned the war department to restore the old level of the lake.

The war department immediately granted this request, pointing out that the 15-inch level was maintained for seven years, was injurious to navigation interests as well as to the health of the people in the lower valley. Oshkosh and Fond du Lac protested, and sought a public hearing.

CASINO SUICIDES GROW; OFFICIALS ARE WORRIED
Monte Carlo, Monaco—(AP)—The increasing number of foreigners committing suicide here is beginning to worry the Casino directors probably for the first time, in the 65 years of the gambling palace's existence. In one week three men, an Austrian, an Italian and a German, committed suicide after losing heavily in the Casino.

When a gambler takes his life while in the Casino grounds it is practically impossible to check up on the fact and in many cases even the resident consuls are not notified. Before the war the gardens in front of the Casino were favorite suicide sites but now it seems that the dependent losers prefer the privacy of their hotel rooms with the result that the public knows what is going on.

Though the Casino, several years ago, stopped the system started by Camille Blais, the founder, whereby losers were given tickets to their homes, it is reported that the plan has been unofficially working for the past few weeks.

SCOUTS HEAR TALK ON TELEVISION APPARATUS
A description of the latest invention in the radio field, television, was given by Bernard Kottler at a meeting of valley council boys scouts of Troop 2, First Methodist Episcopal church, in the church parlors Tuesday evening. Kottler, who recently constructed a "home made" television set, claims he has come in contact with a Chicago station.

COUNTY BOARD SMOKE CIGARS ON LEO TOONEN

The Outagamie-co board, this morning was treated to a box of cigars by Leo Toonen, assessor of income who proudly explained that he is the father of a son, born last night at his home. Both Mrs. Toonen and the son are doing fine. Mr. Toonen said. This is the Toonen's fourth child.

REFERENDUM ON COURTHOUSE IS ASKED OF BOARD

Supervisors to Consider Matter as Special Business on Thursday

The Outagamie-co board spent most of this morning's session in a committee of the whole meeting, at which eight sets of proposed plans for a new courthouse were closely inspected. There was no discussion, and after the board reported back shortly before noon a resolution was presented providing for a referendum on the matter at the April session. Eighteen supervisors signed the resolution. The resolution seeking the referendum was laid over until 9:30 Thursday morning when consideration of all matters pertaining to the new courthouse will take place.

Supervisor Anton Jansen's resolution, which would exempt towns and villages from provisions of the county law on hall regulations, was laid over until Friday. The district attorney has been instructed to secure an opinion from the attorney general as to the validity of exempting towns and villages under this introduction.

A short discussion followed the introduction of Mr. Jansen's resolution in which Supervisor John Niesen, Kaukauna, charged: "The district attorney's office got in a hole on this matter. Now it can take the blame and see that we get out of it."

Mr. Niesen suggested that action on Mr. Jansen's resolution be deferred until the dance committee, and the sheriff had been heard from.

Favors Gas Tax
The board went on record favoring an increase in the gasoline tax providing a through-state hard road system resulted. It declared itself in favor of having the county clerk issue automobile licenses providing the county retained 40 cents from each license to cover the cost. Approval also was expressed of a petition to the legislature seeking a statewide referendum on the continuance of vocational education. A resolution asking the legislature to compel assessors of income to confer with county equalization committees in making county assessments was approved.

A report from the county board inventory committee, which consists of Supervisors Savall, Rademacher and Farrell showed that the county's holding, including the courthouse, jail, work farm and rural normal school at Kaukauna, are valued at $442,578.85. Courthouse grounds are valued at $26,000; the courthouse at $185,000; training school grounds, $100,091.45; workhouse, $6,468; and jail at $75,000.

W. PERKINS BULL HURT IN AUTOMOBILE MISHAP

Coldwater, Mich.—(AP)—W. Perkins Bull, K. C. of Toronto, whose right leg was fractured in an accident near Quincy, Mich., yesterday, left here in an ambulance at 11:30 a. m. Today to complete the trip from Chicago to Detroit which he started in a taxicab before the accident.

From Detroit it is planned for Bull to enter Canada and go by train to Toronto. He was accompanied by a physician and an attorney from Chicago, whose names were not learned, and by his wife and a son. They rode in a taxicab behind the ambulance and were followed in turn by another car occupied by Chicago newspapermen.

Bull, a prominent barrister, has been in the news recently because of a visit paid to his Chicago apartment by federal narcotic agents and because of connection with the divorce suit of Mrs. Maybelle Horlick Sidley, daughter of the malted milk magnate.

FARMERS VOTE TO JOIN COOPERATIVE
Plans for cooperative marketing of their dairy products were made at a meeting of farmers at Twelve Corners last night. The farmers are undecided just what cooperative movement they will join, but they voted by a large majority to join some movement. Speakers were R. R. Smith, fieldman for the Wisconsin Cheese federation; and Gus Sell, county agent. An executive committee was named to make plans for a future meeting. On this committee are Alfred Wirth, Carl Kreutzman, Leo Dufferding and Louis Krueger.

$300 "DECORATIONS" VALUED AT $50,000
Chicago—(AP)—Mrs. Jason F. Whitney of Evanston, could have a net little profit of some 19,657 per cent in case she ever wanted to dispose of the "nice decorations" she purchased from a Chicago dealer, art experts said today.

The "nice decorations" were identified by Maurice Goldblatt, connoisseur, as authentic paintings of the Flemish master, Rubens. He estimated that they were worth in the neighborhood of $50,000. Mrs. Whitney paid $800 for them.

IGNORE HOOVER PROTEST OVER VETS AID BILL

Senate Finance Body Votes to Send Measure to Upper House

"and possibly do harm to the business recovery of the country." Reed offered an amendment in committee to restrict the loans to those veterans who already have borrowed. It lost 12 to 5.

King proposed to limit the relief to those veterans actually in distress as proposed by the administration. It was rejected, 10 to 7, with Senators Couzens, La Follette, and Thomas of Idaho, joining the Democrats in opposition.

A motion by Senator Thomas of Oklahoma to charge no interest on the loans mustered only three votes, with Shortridge and King supporting him.

Senator Harrison asked the senate to enter an agreement to take up the bill tomorrow as demands were made for immediate action. He predicted final action on the measure by tomorrow.

In a letter to Chairman Smoot, President Hoover expressed the fear that the measure "will not only nullify the benefits to the veteran but inflict injury to the country as a whole."

At the same time Undersecretary Mills, and Veterans Administrator Hines testified before the committee the administration would accept a bill extending the loan privileges to those veterans in distress, which they estimated at 200,000 to 300,000.

There was little indication as the committee neared a vote on the bill which was approved by the house by 385 to 33, of any weakening in the support for it.

Replying to Senator Harris, Democrat, Mississippi, Senator Smoot said he believed Mr. Hoover's letter meant a veto for the bill.

Spurred by the Hoover opposition, advocates in the senate renewed their drive to get the bill to the White House before Saturday, when the ten day period preceding an adjournment begins and a pocket veto could be administered.

The president's letter, in part, follows: "I have given thought to your request that I should express to you and to the senate finance committee my views upon the bill passed by a house of representatives increasing loans to world war veterans upon the so-called bonus certificate. In view of the short time remaining in the session for its consideration, I shall comply with your request."

"The proposal is to authorize loans upon the certificates up to 50 per cent of their face value. To avoid confusion it must be understood that the face value is the sum payable at the end of the 20-year period (1945) being based on the additional compensation to veterans of about $1,300,000,000 granted about six years ago, plus 25 per cent for deferment, plus 4 per cent compound interest for the 20-year period."

Quotes Possible Total
"As the face value is about $3,423,000,000, loans at 50 per cent will create a potential liability for the government of $1,711,500,000, which is based on the additional compensation to veterans of about $1,300,000,000 granted about six years ago, plus 25 per cent for deferment, plus 4 per cent compound interest for the 20-year period."

"The administrator of veterans affairs informs me by the attached letter that he estimates that if the present conditions continue, then 75 per cent of the veterans may be expected to claim the loans, the sum of approximately $1,283,625,000 will need to be raised by the treasury."

"I have supported, and the nation should maintain the important principle that when men have been called into jeopardy of their very lives in protection of the nation, then the nation as a whole incurs a special obligation beyond that to any other group of its citizens."

"These obligations can not be wholly met with dollars and cents. But good faith and gratitude require that protection be given to them when in ill health, distress and need. All I can do is need."

"Over 700,000 World War veterans or their dependents are today receiving monthly allowances for these reasons. The country should not be called upon, however, either directly or indirectly, to support or make loans to those who can by their own efforts support themselves."

"By the largest part of the huge sum proposed in this bill is to be available to those who are not in distress. The acute depression and unemployment creates a situation of unusual economic sensitiveness, much more easily disturbed at this time than in normal times by the consequences of this legislation, and such action might quite well result in a prolongation of this period of unemployment and suffering in which veterans will themselves suffer with others."

"By our expansion of public construction for assistance to unemployment and other relief measures, we have imposed upon ourselves a deficit in this fiscal year of upwards of $500,000,000, which must be obtained by issue of securities to the investing public. This bill may possibly require the securing of a further billion of money likewise from the public."

"Beyond this, the government is faced with a billion dollars of early maturities of outstanding debts which must be refunded aside from constant renewal of a very large amount of temporary treasury obligations."

Burden Is Damaging
"The additional burden of this project can not but have damaging effect at a time when all efforts should be for the rehabilitation of employ-

Win Shorter Hours for Postal Workers

ADMIRAL AZNAR FORMS CABINET AND TAKES OATH

titude of King Alfonso, who in his selection Monday of Jose Antonio Sanchez Guerra as premier designate, gave tacit consent to a constitutional convention which would have shorn the throne of much of its power and perhaps changed the form of the Spanish government altogether.

To Call Parliament
The new government, while its program has not been announced, probably will seek constitutional revision but to a limited degree. Like its predecessor, the ministry of General Berenguer, who resigned Saturday, it will attempt to restore parliamentary government at the earliest possible time.

Today's development, which critics of the king called working out of another transitory cabinet, found the capital quiet without the slightest disorder. Troops were held in their barracks, but the streets were heavily patrolled by police who imposed a state of virtual martial law on the city. Suspension of constitutional guarantees continues and the censorship was maintained.

The atmosphere today was much less tense than yesterday when there seemed imminent danger of another revolution or coup d'etat to re-establish a military dictatorship. Fear of a general strike called by the Socialists was passing although it was felt generally such a strike would surely result in the suspension of constitutional guarantees should be lifted. Political prisoners who probably would have been freed if Sanchez Guerra had worked out his government now are expected to stay in jail.

The designation of Admiral Aznar developed after a five hour meeting last night of the monarchist representatives of the ministry of war.

Announces Agreement
After the meeting Dr. Julio Wais, minister of finance in the resigned Berenguer government, announced that an agreement had been reached to collaborate in a government in which the only monarchist group to be excluded would be that headed by Sanchez Guerra. He said that three persons had been designated as acceptable premiers, General Berenguer, Admiral Aznar and Captain General Leopoldo Salo of Valladolid. General Berenguer was believed to have been eliminated as a choice by the king because of a severe foot infection which has kept him in bed several days now.

CHICAGO PLUMBING INSPECTOR SLAIN

Machine Gun Bullets Kill Suspect in Murder of Two Union Agents

Chicago—(AP)—Albert Courchene, 35, a city plumbing inspector who last summer was arrested as a suspect in the killing of two plumbers' union agents, was killed by machine gun bullets today as he directed work on a south side building. He died shortly afterward in a hospital.

A score of bullets were fired from a small sedan in which two men cruised past the house where Courchene was inspecting work. Six of them entered his chest, abdomen and leg.

Police expressed the opinion he was slain in retaliation for the killing of Charles Mulcahy and Matthew Rueberry last August. The two men, agents of the Plumbers' union, were shot to death at a city high school. At the time of the double slaying Courchene was employed as a foreman for the Carl John Stein company, later being appointed a city inspector. He was arrested with Charles Stein, son of his employer, but a coroner's jury refused to hold them for the killings.

A loaded revolver was found in Courchene's pocket indicative police said, of his fear of vengeance.

Courchene was directing work at Lane Technical high school last summer when the union agents approached the gang. Police arrested Courchene and Stein, accusing them of shooting the pair when they attempted to collect fees.

MARDI GRAS CLOSES AS LENT MAKES ENTRANCE

New Orleans—(AP)—The chimes of the old St. Louis cathedral, one of the most historic churches on the American continent, brought another Mardi Gras to a close at midnight this morning and at the same moment ushered in Lent's forty days of atonement.

As the pealing bells hushed the din of dance and masquerade, King Rex retired from the throne of fantasy to become again Edward E. Soula, a businessman, and the unidentified King Zulu, Negro carnival ruler, returned to the workaday world.

The concluding event on the Mardi Gras program was the ball of Comus, god of laughter, at which Miss Adele Jahncke, daughter of Ernest Lee Jahncke, assistant secretary of the navy, was queen.

TRUST OFFICER ROBBED
Chicago—(AP)—Joseph Snyder, an official of the Cook County Trust company, was kidnapped in his automobile and robbed of $5,000 today by two robbers. Snyder had collected the money in cash and checks from managers of buildings under the bank's charge.

British Girl Homesick, Leaves Role In Movies

Hollywood, Calif.—(AP)—The lure of the films faded and flickered out for Edna Best while homesickness for Dear De Lunnion grew.

She just walked out, leaving him, a large cast, an irate director, technicians and all who had gathered at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio to begin work on "Cheri-Pebi."

John Robertson, the director, tore his hair when Miss Best failed to appear. Gilbert, whom she was to support in the cast, paced the floor. Cameramen smoked, extra girls commented audibly on the manner in which stars were allowed to keep everybody waiting.

"Maybe she wasn't feeling well this morning," Gilbert said by way of soothing Robertson.

"The director, speechless, looked at his watch again. The overhead kept piling up.

"A telegram, sir," said a messenger boy.

It was from Miss Best, filed as she passed through Needles, Calif., enroute to England, London, and the husband she left behind. It said: "Please forgive me. I am on my way back to London and my husband. I am awfully homesick and besides I am just afraid I wouldn't be any good in the picture. Edna Best."

"Well, I'll be darned!" Robertson said.

Gilbert read the message without comment.

Leila Hyams, who had played opposite Gilbert in other pictures, was summoned to replace Miss Best.

Judge Trude said members of his family had been friendly with those of A. W. Longley and had visited them both in Chicago and at the latter's Janesville, Wis., farm.

LAWRENCE AIDS NEEDY YOUTHS, WRISTON SAYS

Loan Funds, Jobs Help Worthy Students Pay Part of Expenses

That Lawrence college is becoming increasingly hospitable to students who must work their way through college was proved by Dr. Henry M. Wriston, president of the college, in his address at the forum dinner at Hotel Northern Tuesday noon. The statistics he presented were incidental and prefatory to his address, The College and Business. Refuting the argument that the college is not interested in the boy who has to work his way through college, the president showed that loan funds had increased from $30,658 to $45,313 in six years. This increase of 50 per cent will jump to 130 per cent when the bequest of Mrs. Choate of $70,000 becomes available, and in addition there is the use of the income from $40,000 through an arrangement with a foundation.

Six years ago the funds for scholarship aid, or free tuition, were $53,285. Today they amount to $105,304, almost double the earlier amount. In addition there are five LaVerne Noyes scholarships and one from the American Bankers association in alternate years.

Employs Student Labor
Besides loans and gifts the college is an important employer of student labor, he said. The college employs in one year no less than 115 students whose average earnings are $98 apiece, and whose total earnings amount to $11,333. When the number of persons given loans, scholarships, or direct employment by the college is tallied it is found that in one year the number of students assisted was 274, and the amount of aid was $31,300.

He pointed out that there are boys on telephone switchboards, clerking, doing janitor work, working in the Y. M. C. A., in mill laboratories, in mill shifts at gas stations, as night watchmen, waiting on tables in restaurants, and fraternity houses, playing in bands, tending furnaces, doing odd jobs, and many girls working in homes. In short, nearly one-third of the full time students in the college get some aid from the institution directly, and a large number of others have been given jobs or have secured their own. He explained that these students are members of fraternities and sororities, that there is no social snobbery at Lawrence which discriminates against those who work.

Given Consideration
"Another misconception is that boys engaged in athletics do not get any consideration in this matter — that loans, gifts, and jobs go to others and leave them stranded," declared Dr. Wriston. "Take our last three football captains. Barfell had loans, jobs, and other assistance, and deserved it. St. Mitchell had loans and jobs. Laird earns his room by janitor service, and makes money clerking in a drug store. Biggers, captain of basketball, has one of the largest scholarships in college, and earns over $300 a year as editor of the Lawrentian. The largest scholarship in college goes to a football man. Schneller has had a La Verne Noyes scholarship, and Hovde, Tranlike, Morton, Vincent, and Peters are other football men who have had some scholarship aid. In short, no football man whose scholarship average was 85, which is required of all students who get scholarship aid, and who actually needed help, has failed to get it. No athlete of high character has been denied a needed loan, even if his scholarship was not high and no athlete willing to work has gone without our eager co-operation in getting a job."

"The Carroll game showed that we have athletes, and it is a matter of pride that every boy who played those Lawrence as a college, and not because of improper inducements. And I think it is true that the scholastic record of every man playing was better this past semester than the record made in his freshman year, and from the standpoint of a community which will use these men long after their playing days are over that is an important point."

Enrollment Grows
"Sometimes it is felt that our athletic policy has injured the college, so far as student enrollment is concerned we have gained more in attendance than any other big four college, — Beloit, Carroll, or Ripon. Indeed in the last four years we have gained more than any other college in the midwest league, with the possible exception of Knex which gained by absorbing Lombard. And this gain has not been in girls. During the last three years we have had each year more boys than girls in the freshman class. We have gained more boys than any other college in the state. It is a matter of no small significance from the point of view of the merchants that the college is larger this year. In this connection let me emphasize the report made by a group of impartial experts who made a survey of the college, and of many others. They stated that the drawing power of Lawrence was unusual, that more students came from outside the 50 mile radius, and more from outside a 100 mile radius, than is the case with most colleges."

"During this period regarded by some as an athletic slump Lawrence College has spent more money for land, buildings, and improvements than any other college in the state, and than any college in the midwest league. Lawrence College has received, together with its affiliated Institute of Paper Chemistry, more money in the last five years by way of gifts than in any previous period of like length in the history of the college. We have spent more money in the year from April 1, 1930 to April 1, 1931 for library books than has ever been spent in any five years previous, and we have spent more money for books in the last five years than in any 15 years previous."

COLLEGE STUDENTS OBSERVE TEACHING

Regular observation of Lawrence college students in the practice teaching class under Dr. R. E. Thiel, professor of education, was done last week in the Appleton high school classes of English, mathematics, French, speech, economics and history. There were 29 college students who visited classes regularly to observe teaching methods and procedure.

THE COURTHOUSE

Circumstances have been projected into the building situation in Outagamie county the last few months to indicate that the present session of the county board is a propitious time for serious consideration of whether a new courthouse should be started this year.

Probably the most important recent development has been the sharp recession in building prices. The new post-office in Appleton, which federal architects believed would cost about $195,000 if constructed of brick, has been contracted for at a figure less than $170,000 for stone. Surveys in Milwaukee, Madison and other cities indicate that building costs are from 12 to 20 per cent less than a year ago. Experience of builders in Appleton has been that material prices are substantially lower than in 1929 and 1930.

When the courthouse building program was suggested two or three years ago it was estimated that a building adequate to the county's needs and an architectural credit to its wealth would cost close to a million dollars. Now it has developed that a structure, entirely suitable for the county, can be built and equipped for $650,000. These figures are based upon estimates placed before the county board building committee by architects who have been advising with the committee concerning the proposed building. Of course a much more expensive building can be erected, but it has been proven that a building, designed to serve the purpose of the county, can be constructed at a cost far below the estimates that accompanied the original suggestions.

A building project of this magnitude would provide employment for a large number of persons with a resultant increase in the buying power of this community. From President Hoover down, political and business leaders have been urging public construction as a means of restoring prosperity, especially when it appears that construction can be carried on to an advantage at the present time. Authorization of a new courthouse here would be the stimulus which the business of this community needs.

The county probably never will be in a better position for financing a new courthouse than it is at the present time. Bonds made necessary by highway improvements are being liquidated at a rapid rate and the credit of the county easily can stand the comparatively small bond issue which a new courthouse would entail. Probably not more than $500,000 in bonds would be required to finance the construction and equipment of a new building, in addition to the $125,000 now in the courthouse building fund.

It is generally conceded that the present courthouse cannot possibly serve the county much longer. Built when no one could prophesy the enormous enlargement of county functions, it long ago ceased to be adequate to the county's needs. Officials are working under difficulties, judges are hampered and handicapped in their work and over all there is the menace of fire that in a few minutes might wipe out documents that cost years of effort and millions of dollars.

While it is possible that a courthouse can be made to serve for some few years longer, the important factors developed in the last few months merit consideration of a more immediate program. If, by building now, the county can erect a building at a substantially lower figure than appeared to be possible some months ago it might be the part of wisdom to take advantage of present prices and proceed with a building that, in any event, must soon be erected.

IT MUST BE DRAMATIC

If a man's misery and danger can be dramatized, he is pretty sure to get speedy help. If they can't, he is apt to be out of luck.

This pessimistic conclusion is provoked by reading of the recent efforts that have been made to save fishermen from drifting ice floes on the Great Lakes.

Not long ago more than two dozen men went adrift on the ice in Lake Erie. Airplanes were chartered to take food to them. Coast guards risked their lives to get help to them. For two or three days half a dozen states forgot about weightier matters to watch exciting efforts to rescue the drifters. When the men were finally saved there was rejoicing on all sides.

In the same way, the state of Michigan was galvanized into action a few days later when one man went adrift on the ice near White Shoals light-house, in Lake Michigan. Dozens of men put out in boats to get him. Many lives were risked and unusual pains were taken to see to it that he might be brought to safety.

Those incidents are fair samples of the way people respond when someone's danger is made dramatic.

Unfortunately, a predicament that isn't dramatic generally goes unnoticed. We reserve our tears for the cases that make headlines.

An unemployed workman can stalk city streets for days, staggering on the edge of starvation, with hunger and sickness threatening his family because he has no money—but no one gets excited about it. To be sure, most cities have fairly capable relief organizations that will come to the rescue if the man asks for help; but none of us will worry very much about it. We will not even contribute to those relief organizations unless elaborate campaigns are staged to drum us into line.

Similarly, a farmer in the section that has been hit by drought can go as hungry as he likes without stirring the compassion of his fellow countrymen. The newspapers have made it pretty clear that thousands of people in such states as Arkansas are enduring very real suffering this winter—but the Red Cross is actually having a hard time collecting $10,000,000 for their relief, and a proposal to appropriate federal money to help the work along has drawn bitter and spirited condemnation.

The trouble with us is that we don't respond to ordinary misery and misfortune. Appeals must be made dramatic. We must have something that could be put on the moving picture screen. The fight against hunger and cold is not exciting enough.

The moral seems to be that one who falls into misfortune must take care to pick a misfortune that has plenty of human interest.

THE CHURCHMEN AND MOONEY

The effort to forget about Tom Mooney does not seem to be headed toward success. The latest obstacle to be thrown in its path is the formation of a group of distinguished churchmen to work for pardons for Mooney and Warren Billings, who was imprisoned with him.

The names of some of these churchmen are striking testimony to the way in which Mooney's case appeals to liberal-minded folk. Among them, for instance, you will find such men as Bishop Francis J. McConnell of the Methodist Episcopal church; Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, and Father John A. Ryan. Liberals these men undoubtedly are; but one of them is a man who ordinarily espouses a cause that does not commend itself to an intelligent mind.

It is a little bit hard, considering that set of names, to cling to the belief that exact justice has been done in the case of Tom Mooney.

VOLTA'S BIRTH
On Feb. 18, 1745, Alessandro Volta, an Italian physicist famed for inventing the voltaic battery, was born at Como.

Educated in the public schools of his native town, Volta showed a marked taste for literary effort and physics. When he was but 26 he gained considerable popularity for his discussion of the phenomena of frictional electricity.

Following his appointment as professor of physics in the Royal school at Como, Volta applied himself to chemistry, one of his important discoveries in this science being the organic nature of marsh gas. He studied atmospheric electricity and devised many experiments, such as igniting gases by the electric spark in closed vessels.

In 1800, a year after he became professor of physics at the University of Pavia, a chair he occupied for 25 years, Volta made his important discovery of the voltaic battery. The volt, the unit of electric pressure, was named for him.

Just Folks
By Edgar A. Guest

CHILD AND GOSSIP
If to Janet you should go
Pouring gossip in her ear;
Hinting all the debts I owe,
Still she'd call me: "Daddy, dear!"

If you mentioned that my hat
Is a faded thing and old
She could not be changed by that;
Still she'd run my hand to hold.

If you told her deed of shame,
Which from the gossips you had heard,
Janet would remain the same,
She would not believe a word.

Say to her my money's gone,
Cry that loss has stripped me bare,
Still her love would carry on;
Little Janet wouldn't care.

Only grownups turn away
When such lies or truths are told;
So against the world I say,
Little Janet's love I hold.

TONSILLECTOMY BY DIATHERMY OVER THERE

Last April an English doctor, Walter Collins, reported in the London Lancet his experience in the removal of tonsils by diathermy. He had employed this method in 150 cases, adults mainly, and he believes the method has every advantage of ordinary surgical tonsillectomy and none of its disadvantages. Dr. Collins believes diathermy is not suitable for children under 14 years of age, since to them a general anesthetic is not so alarming as the appearance of the diathermy apparatus.

In this country some of the more skilled specialists, doctors who know the art of managing children and gaining their confidence and cooperation, have found diathermy quite satisfactory for the extirpation of the tonsils in children as young as five or six years. Of course only the exceptionally well bred child can have diathermy treatment.

For adults Dr. Collins says no general anesthetic is required. It is sufficient to spray the throat with a local anesthetic.

The whole treatment lasts only a few seconds. The British surgeon says it is advisable to complete the tonsillectomy in two, three or four stages or treatments at intervals of a week or more. The patient should be examined at the end of a month and again after the lapse of three months; should any fragment of lymphoid (tonsil) tissue have escaped destruction it is easily disposed of at this time, with a touch of diathermy.

Collins has his patients use a simple antiseptic mouth wash after meals, but absolutely forbids gargling.

Following each such treatment the portion of tonsil that has been coagulated or desiccated shrivels and gradually sloughs away.

No secondary bleeding occurred in the 150 cases. It was never necessary to hospitalize a patient.

In England perhaps they have never been quite so radical, not to say rabid, about the removal of tonsils as we have been in this country. From the growing and gnawing and gritting of teeth I fancy my plain and unchallenged assertions about the tonsillectomy scandal in this country have not been quite in vain, yet there is still room for a lot of improvement in the "accepted" way of dealing with bad tonsils in America. Especially does the rank and file of the medical profession here need to stir out of its slumber in respect to this modern method, and at least acknowledge that it is a good alternative for patients who, for one reason or another cannot undergo a general anesthetic or risk the shock of surgical tonsillectomy even under local anesthetic. The fact that some of the would-be leaders have conducted a vain campaign to discourage diathermy in throat surgery, despite its adoption in brain surgery, gullet surgery and urology, is a poor consolation for the inert nose and throat men who have failed to equip themselves to provide this boon for handicapped patients.

Here is an opportunity for many a good doctor—there the still cities without a throat specialist who is able to extirpate tonsils with diathermy. And the intelligent patient is more and more demanding this modern treatment.

Why Take a Chance?
I am 35 years old and am going to have weigh 180 pounds. I have many sore throats and colds in the head. Would it be dangerous for one of my age to have their tonsils removed? (Miss H. L. E.)

Answer—No, but it might not be so safe for one of your weight. But why take the risk? There must be a competent doctor within reach who can give you tonsils the diathermy treatment, which is both safe and effective. If I believed my tonsils were infected I should have the diathermy treatment.

My Goodness, Is Thirty-five Late?
I am 35 years old and am going to have my first baby. I understand it is dangerous to have the first child so late in life. . . . H. G. N.)

Answer—Go along with you, girl. At 35 a woman is her best. Send stamped envelope bearing your address and mention you are an expectant mother.

The Tynmites

By Hal Cochran
THE Travel Man said, "Please think twice before you will know what I can't cook. What would we cook it on, my son? Please try and tell me that. We haven't any stove with us and anyway, 'twould make a fuss. I really think that your suggestion sounds a wee bit flat."

Poor Scouty said, "I guess you're right. I'm just a thoughtless Tynmite, but maybe we can buy some, cooked. I'm hungry for some, now. If some cafe we can call, where they have fine cooked rice on sale, I'll gladly treat this hungry bunch. This fair, you will allow."

The others rushed up to his side. "Oh, you're a good sport!" they all cried. The Travel Man then added, "There's a cafe near at hand. It's just a few blocks down the street. Come on—but this will be my treat." And shortly they were eating rice and meat, it tasted grand.

When finished Clowny said, "Tun-pear's a dandy town. I'm glad we're here. Let's go down to the docks and watch the big boats come and go." The others all agreed this plan was very good and off they ran. The docks were reached and they watched boats that traveled fast and slow.

Seen Clowny shouted, "Goodness knows, I'd like to ride on one of those!" Then Clowny cried, "Oh, look! I see a funny two-wheeled cart. A native's pulling it around. I wonder just where he is bound. I'd ride the cart, if I was sure it wouldn't fall apart."

"Don't worry," said the Travel Man. "I'll promptly for things so you can have just the trip you're wishing for. The man will treat you right." Seen Clowny, with a silly grin, walked to the cart and crawled right in. Then, as the native pulled him round, he surely "tacked" right.

"(The Tynmites watch some native wrestlers in the next story.)"

Nice Warm Uddies
I am troubled with a fiery red nose whenever I get a little cold. I don't mean get sick but just when I am out in the cold. This is very embarrassing. As for this I enjoy fine health. (Miss M. L. S.)

Answer—Well, it is enough to make a person with nice warm uddies blush a bit to see the way some girls brave the wintry blasts. I suppose, however, you'd prefer to freeze to death rather than wear something comfortable. Anyway, try wool stocking feet or in-soles, and wear warm gloves or carry a muff to keep your hands warm. M.M.D. I'm not saying it makes a difference to health what kind of undergarments you wear. I merely say it makes a difference in comfort.

Permanent Teeth Coming
My boy, aged 8 years 4 months, lost his upper central incisors 8 months ago, and we cannot see any sign of new teeth coming in. What is wrong. (Mr. E. D.)

Answer—Nothing. The permanent teeth usually do not appear until the child is 7 or 8 years old. The first permanent tooth cut is the first molar which comes in at about the age of 6 years—and dentists regard this first permanent molar as a pivotal tooth, which it is very important to save. The other permanent teeth are cut usually between the ages of 9 and 15 years, except the third molar or "wisdom" teeth, which come in as late as 18 to 20 years, if at all. Send stamped envelope bearing your address and ask for instructions for the care and preservation of the teeth. I said ask—that does not mean to file a clipping.

Discharge Married Women Employees

Editor Post-Crescent—Now that his Honor the Mayor, has appointed a committee on employment many of our married women workers will breathe a sigh of relief as they will feel assured of permanent employment. On that Committee we read the names of men, who, knowing the conditions of unemployment the past year or two and being fully aware of the suffering caused thereby kept married women in their employ who had husbands working steady and earning large salaries. The married women were working not from any need of their salaries, but for spending money and how they and their husbands did spend it, new cars, gasoline, shows, clubs, card parties, etc., while our daughters and many a widow and her children lacked the necessary things of life. Rumors have been afloat that these jobs should be replaced by men. Men need work it is true, but many jobs held by these women are not the kind of work men do and why should a job that has always been held by a woman be turned over to a man. Should we do with our daughters as the heathen do, destroy them? No, our girls need work and should be given an opportunity to earn their living and be able to pay the old folks, who have educated them at a sacrifice, a few dollars a week board. Then there are the widows. Who is more deserving of a job than the woman, who on getting married gave up her job, made a home for her husband and raised her children? When in a few years the father dies and the widow has back-bone enough to get out and buck against the world for a living to keep her home and family together, shouldn't she be given some consideration, yes even more than a man or young girl. I would say especially more than one of these spineless critics that let their wives work and take the bread and butter out of the mouths of the needy. It is Income Tax time. Which will the Tax Assessor do about the exemptions for these working married couples? Will a man who has a working wife be allowed the exemption of a married man? Why should he be considered a married man when he has never supported a wife, she has supported herself. In justice to a man who does support his wife these married men with working wives should be considered as a single man for exemption.

The Feb. 18 issue of the Campaigner, Times of Madison, printed a list of 253 married couples who are on the State's payroll. Is it a wonder there has been a shortage of employment? 253 couples drawing double salaries and its safe to guess that none or a very few of them have children. The question is now that the legislature has this information what will do about it? Wouldn't it be a good idea for the tax payers to send a petition to the legislature and request that either the husband or wife be discharged immediately and 253 jobs be given to those who need them? More than 253 jobs could be opened in Appleton with no inconvenience to any one, if these committees would list a married couples working here and discharge either the husband or the wife. We have a fine general chairman at the head of these committees. A man who is a family man, knows what it is to raise a family, knows what it means to educate children, so we can hope for some action, not just a few meetings and no work done for the relief.

Taxpayers.

But Aren't We All?
Editor Post-Crescent—Art Shires says, "Barnum was good too." He meant or rather thought, "Barnum was right."

Doesn't the spirit of democracy often falter when one sees the public play the role of fool so often? What, one would think, is the real value of public opinion. Do these same people make our laws? elect our representatives? speak of issues in a sensible way? I often doubt it. I believe mere chance does a great deal of our governing. Has not many a politician played Barnum? I'll say no more, but to Art Shires a hearty handclasp. He knows a fool when he sees one.

Sincerely,

BATTLE LOOMS OVER WIDENING OF APPLETON-ST

Neller Elected Chairman of Association to Oppose Project

Opposition to the widening of Appleton-st was crystallized at a meeting at the First National bank Monday, when 18 property owners on the street organized the Appleton Street Property Owners Association. John W. Neller was elected chairman of the group, and Mrs. Ellis Carroll secretary. The executive committee includes R. K. Wolter, T. H. Held, R. S. Powell, Claude G. Cannon and Adam C. Remley. Those on the membership committee are Chris Roemer, Joseph Gamaly and George Wissmann. The purpose of the organization is to promote and protect the interests of the property owners on Appleton-st.

Boiled down, the arguments against the widening of the street are that no parking or traffic advantages other than those that can be realized through parking regulations will be obtained, that it will decrease pedestrian space, a situation which might become serious in later years, that narrow walks, in view of the eventual installation of ornamental lights, would mar the attractiveness of the street, and that it will depreciate the value of the property on the street. All members of the group stated that they would favor the widening if the advantages warranted the cost but that under the present circumstances they do not feel the advantages offset the disadvantages.

It developed at the meeting that 90 per cent of the property owners on Appleton-st from Lawrence to Washington-st and a large percentage beyond Washington-st are opposed to the project.

BUYERS OF NURSERY STOCK ARE WARNED

Madison —(P)—Buyers of nursery stock are warned against dealing with unlicensed agents in a statement issued today by E. L. Chambers, state entomologist.

Every spring, Mr. Chambers says, complaints are received of fraudulent agents who ask for a down payment on an order, but pocket the money and never send the goods. The entomologist explains that in cases where the wife signs an order for stock, under the pressure of a sales talk by certain out-landish agents, the husband's understanding that her husband can cancel the order, the goods must be paid for.

INQUIRIES INCREASE ON FARM PURCHASES

Madison —(P)—The increased requests for information on buying farms, reported by the department of agriculture and markets, is due to the unemployment situation, Ralph E. Ammon, chief of the division of farms and state development said today.

"The unemployment situation is turning the eyes of folks toward the farm where they may earn their bread," Mr. Ammon said. "Many of the requests come from men who have no means with which to buy land. Those without funds and without knowledge of agriculture are cautioned about making a venture into farming under those conditions. A few farms have been sold during the past two months as a result of these inquiries."

ANNUAL SHIPMENTS OF CATTLE DECLINE

Madison —(P)—Shipments of dairy cattle out of Wisconsin during January were four per cent below the number for the same month a 1930 and 33 per cent under the total for December, the department of agriculture reports.

A total of 2,506 head of dairy cows were shipped to fifteen of the forty-eight states and Porto Rico during the past month, the report states. New Jersey replaced Illinois as leading customer with New York, Iowa, Minnesota, and Pennsylvania receiving substantial shipments.

The price schedule of the department shows that dairy cattle prices dropped from $70 in December 1930 to $65 per head in January, a decrease of over seven per cent in the month.

BEST NIGHT "BIRDS"

Bad Stomach Cause of Bad Skin

You can't expect to have a good clear fresh-looking complexion if your stomach is weak and disordered.

Undigested food sends poisons through your whole body, pimples appear on your face, skin grows scaly and itchy and loses its color. Your tongue becomes coated, breath most unpleasant. But these troubles all end quickly and skin clear up if you will start today taking that simple herbal compound known to druggists as Tanlac.

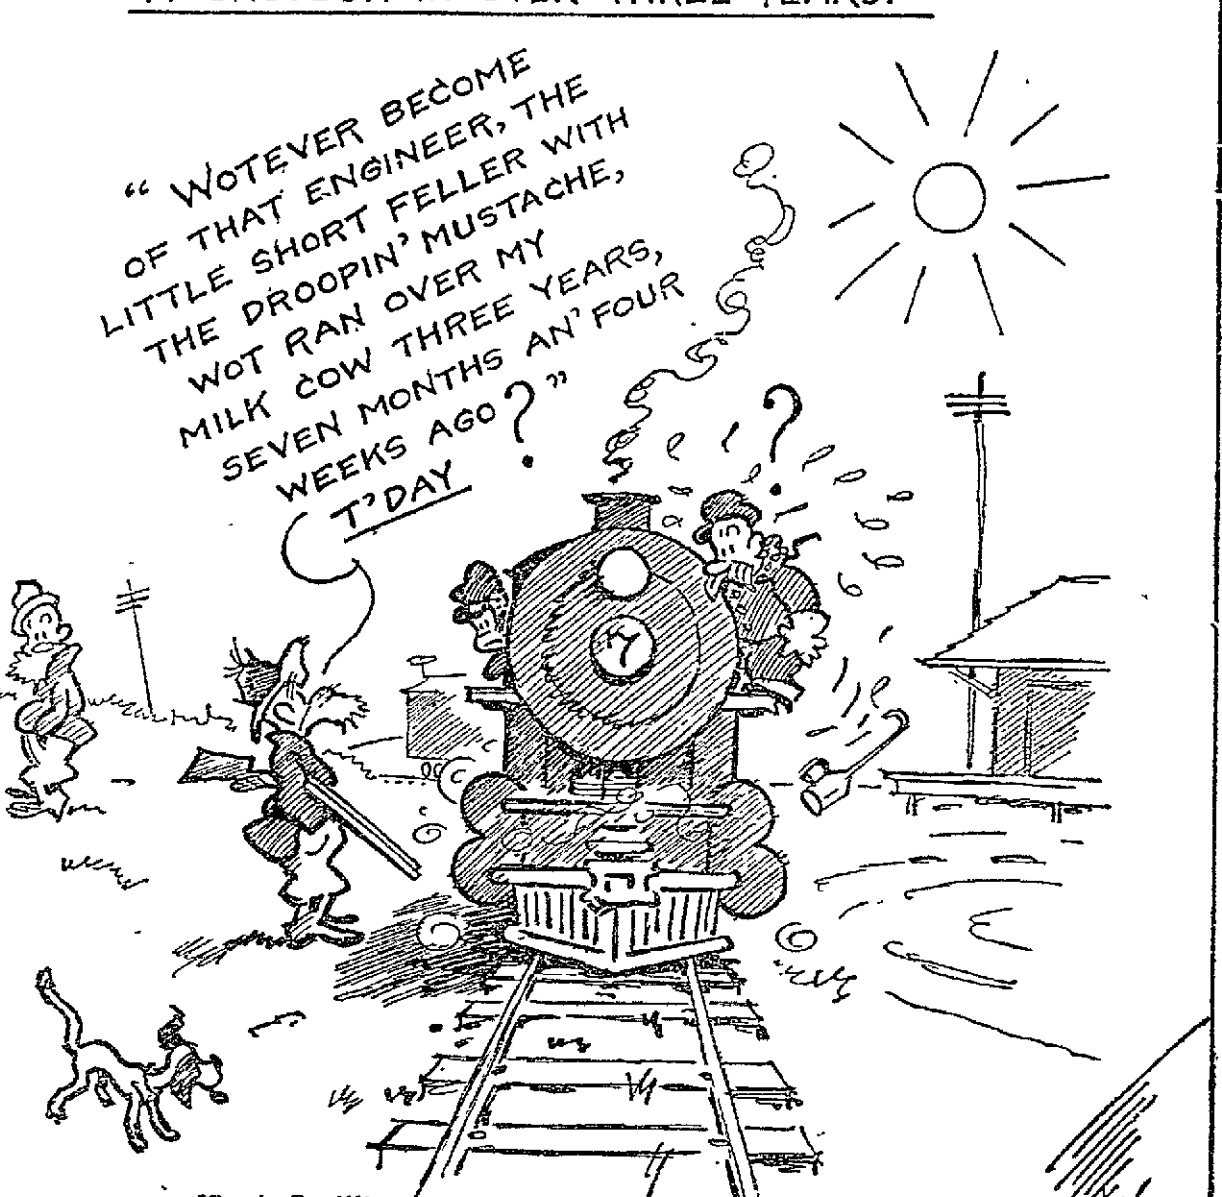

Tanlac contains nothing but herbs, barks and roots which have a cleansing, healing effect on a poor, peevish stomach. Just a teaspoonful before each meal stimulates the digestion naturally so that you can eat what you want without fear of distress. And when your stomach is in good shape again see how much better your appetite is—watch how thickly skin begins to grow free of scurfing eruptions. The cost of Tanlac is less than for a dose. Get a little from your druggist today, money back if it doesn't help you.

Students Pledge Selves To Minister's Code Of Ethics

Students at Lawrence college may spend their third year studying at the University of Munich, Munich, Germany, and receive full credit toward graduation for the work taken, according to a plan announced by president Henry M. Wriston. Students must receive the sanction of the college authorities before registering, however, and only those whose record has been uniformly high and who have had two years of college German or its equivalent will be allowed to go.

Prof. Camillo von Klenze of the department of History of American Literature and German American Cultural relations at the University of Munich will be in charge of the American group. Instead of being quartered in dormitories the foreign students will live with private German families in order to obtain first hand an intimate picture of German life and culture. Special arrangements have been made whereby the students will be able to attend opera and theatres at special student rates, and weekend and vacation trips to places of historical interest are being arranged.

Among the courses to be offered are studies in German Culture and Civilization, German History and Political Institutions and History of the German Language, including conversation, and composition. Approximately $1600 is the estimated cost of a year's study in Germany, exclusive of transportation according to Dr. G. C. Cast, professor of German at Lawrence.

The skeleton possessed a shell more than seven feet in length and nearly three feet deep. In life the tortoise probably weighed more than 2000 pounds. The fossil has been shipped to the United States.

MANY FOREIGN ROSE BUSHES SENT TO STATE

Madison—From 65,000 to 70,000 rose bush roots were imported into Wisconsin last year for use in greenhouses throughout the state, according to E. L. Chambers, in charge of insect and disease control for the department of agriculture and markets. The import into the United States reached the total of 11,206,000 last year.

Nearly all of the roots belong to the Moutet variety and are grown in Holland, England, and France. They are adapted to use in greenhouses because of their strength and will live longer under greenhouse conditions than any other roots known. All of the rose roots shipped into Wisconsin are inspected by the nursery inspectors of the department of agriculture and markets.

Art Colony Is Formed By Chinese

San Francisco—(P)—An art colony of young bachelors was formed in San Francisco's Chinatown Tuesday, coincident with the dawn of a new Chinese year.

A group of painters and one sculptor agreed to live in the same house on a cooperative club basis and devote their lives to art.

The Chinese were rounded up by Otis Oldfield, a teacher at the California School of Fine Arts. Some are his students. Others have recently come from China or Hawaii. Their work has attracted much attention at the art school, but is almost unknown to the public.

The boys work in laundries, as houseboys or whatever they can make a few dollars. With every cent they do not need for food, clothing and shelter, they buy easels, frames, canvas or paints.

In living together in the same house, their only agreement is that enough work shall be done to pay expenses. The remainder of the time is to be devoted to development of their talent.

Feb. 23 the boys will have their first exhibit, a preview of selected paintings for newspapermen. If it "clicks," a public exhibition will be held later.

The real leader, Yen Gee, who has several paintings on exhibition in Paris, is now in Philadelphia. He plans to return in a few weeks to join the group in "La Vie Boheme a la Chinoise," as one artist phrased it.

The ultimate aim of the students is to aid in an anticipated cultural renaissance in China. Their subjects are mostly Chinatown characters, some still life and here and there a country landscape.

Macaulay Essay Of 1830 Mapped Present Conditions

Paris—(P)—Ambassador Edge has found an essay written by Lord Macaulay in the Edinburgh Review of January, 1830, which he regards as unusually appropriate to conditions today.

The ambassador at a luncheon of the American club in Paris read an excerpt from the essay, which said: "The present moment is one of great distress. But how small will that distress appear when we think over the history of the last forty years: a war, compared with which all other wars sink into insignificance; taxation, such as the most heavily taxed people of former times could not have conceived; a debt larger than all the public debts that ever existed in the world added together; the food of the people studiously rendered dear; the currency impudently debased, and improvidently restored.

"If we were to prophesy that in the year 1930, a population of fifty millions, better fed, clad and lodged than the English of our time, will cover these islands; that machines, constructed on principles yet undiscovered will be in every house; that there will be no highways but railroads, no traveling but by steam; that our debt, vast as it seems to us will appear to our great-grandchildren a trifling encumbrance, which might easily be paid off in a year or two, many people would think us insane.

"We cannot absolutely prove that those are in error who tell us that society has reached the turning point; that we have seen our best days. But so said all who came before us, and with just as much apparent reason.

"On what principle is it, that when we see nothing but improvement behind us, we are to expect nothing but deterioration before us?

"Our rulers will best promote the improvement of the people by strictly confining themselves to their own legitimate duties—by leaving capital to find its most lucrative course, commodities their fair price, industry and intelligence their natural reward, idleness and folly their natural punishment, by maintaining peace, by defending property, by diminishing the price of law, and by observing strict economy in every department of the state. Let the government do this—the people will assuredly do the rest." Ambassador Edge's faith in the future, he said, equalled that of the author he quoted. He expressed his belief that the darkest days were behind us.

It is estimated that there are 1,304,300 people in the United States with the surname of Smith, and 1,024,300 named Johnson.

History Of Mexico Told To A.B.P.W.

TRACING the history of Mexico from the Aztec civilization to the present time, Miss Lella Bascam, Madison, associate professor of English at the University of Wisconsin, told members of Appleton Business and Professional Women's club of the rural school system in Mexico, at the meeting of the club Tuesday night at the Woman's club. Her subject was "The Little Red School House in Mexico."

She explained that the purpose of the rural school in Mexico is to make people better farmers and consequently better citizens. The people are interested in art, Miss Bascam stated, and the government does much to encourage those who show ability along those lines. The speaker showed slides picturing temples, streets and other scenes designed to portray the lives of the people.

The club received and accepted two invitations, one from the Twin Cities Business and Professional Women's club to attend a meeting Friday night at Hotel Madison at which the state president, Clara Mae Ward, and Claire will be present. Eighteen Appleton women signified their intention of attending. The Manitowish club has invited the Appleton group to a district meeting to be held April 7 at Manitowish.

Announcement of National Business Women's week to be held March 8 to 14 was made by Miss Irene Reinkens, president. A committee was appointed to make the necessary arrangements for the observance of the week in Appleton. It includes Mrs. E. W. Shannon, Miss Ilse Stearn, Miss Emma Helms, Miss Jean Peterson, Mrs. C. P. Swanson and Miss Irene Reinkens.

The annual state convention will be held May 15 and 16 at Milwaukee, with headquarters at the Hotel Pilsner. The first night of the convention will be stent night and each club in the state will present an act. Miss Esther Miller was appointed chairman of the stunt committee for Appleton. The national convention will take place July 6 to 11 at Richmond, Va.

A nominating committee, consisting of Miss Mabel Younger, chairman, Mrs. Mabel Shannon, and Miss Anna Sullivan was appointed to arrange for the election in April.

Mrs. Ed Brinkman, N. Superior-st., entertained the Relatives club Tuesday afternoon at her home. Prizes at games were won by Mrs. John Witt, Mrs. Robert Witt, Mrs. William Peterson, and Mrs. Fred Harp, the latter of Kilmory. The next meeting will be the latter part of March with Mrs. Fred Hoffman, N. Appleton-st.

The Candle Glow Bridge club met Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Helen Melver, W. Winnebago-st. Prizes were awarded to Miss Arline Brainerd and Miss Edna Matthews. Miss Florence Steinhauer was a guest. The club will meet in two weeks at the home of Mrs. Dorothy Thies, 330 E. Spring-st.

Mrs. Joseph Bellin, N. Appleton-st., was hostess to the Bea Zey club Tuesday evening at her home. Prizes were won by Miss Stella Murray and Miss Dot Duolan. Miss Katherine Keller was a guest. The club will meet next Tuesday with Miss Hilda Boidt, N. Oneida-st.

ONLY ONE COFFEE IS ROASTED UNDER SCIENTIFIC CONTROL

Hills Bros. Use Radically Different, Patented Process to Develop Finer Flavor

The housewife who cooks food in small quantities to insure perfect results will instantly recognize the value of Hills Bros' patented, continuous process—Controlled Roasting—as a means to develop the utmost flavor in coffee.

Instead of the rare blend of fine coffees being roasted in bulk, which is the ordinary method, only a few pounds at a time are roasted. These small quantities pass continuously through the "Controlled Roasters" in which heat and speed of operation are automatically controlled.

Because of this accurate control of the flow of coffee and the heat, every berry of the blend is roasted evenly. None are overdone—none are under-roasted. This uniformity is demonstrated in the cup of coffee eventually made. It has a flavor other coffees cannot equal because they are not roasted the same way.

Hills Bros. Coffee is sold everywhere by grocers. It comes to you perfectly fresh because it is packed in vacuum. This process extracts air, which destroys the flavor of coffee, from the can and keeps it tight, do not keep coffee fresh. Ask for Hills Bros. Coffee by name and look for the Arab—the trade-mark—on the can.

Baby Teeth Big Problem To Dentists

BY ANGELO PATRI

It would astonish you to know how few clean mouths there are among the hosts of children who are in our schools. A clean mouth is a rare occurrence.

When I say a clean mouth I mean clean inside as well as out. The little children have rotting teeth in their mouths. They suffer from toothache. They cannot chew their food properly. The teacher shows the child's mouth to the nurse and the nurse visits the home and tells the mother to take the child to a good dentist and have his teeth cleaned and filled.

Some go promptly. Some never go. Of those who go promptly to the dentist many return with the news that the dentist said he did not do work for little children. Then we begin a search for one who does. Sometimes we find one, sometimes we do not. Usually by dint of patient searching we find a dentist and a clinic and get the worst of the mouths cleaned up a bit.

"These are his first teeth. The dentist said it does not matter about them."

"Did you ask the dentist about these molars here? The two big ones? These are not baby teeth and they have bad holes in them. If the child loses them he loses them for all time. He needs them to keep his jaws in shape and most of all he needs them to chew his food. Did you ask the dentist about them?"

"Well, you see it's like this. When the dentist put him in the chair, he's such a nervous child you understand, he ran out of the office hollering and the dentist got mad and said, 'Take him out of here.' Of course I can't blame the man. But what can I do?"

"What indeed?—Dentists dread the appearance of little children in their offices. Even the men who have been trained to care for the teeth of little children, and they are increasing in numbers every year now, tell us that few children have been trained to accept the attentions of the dentist. The mothers reply by saying that few of the dentists have been trained to care for little children. Both are right. We can do better on both sides of the dentist's chair.

It will help if we begin to teach little children to keep their mouths clean in the early years. Accustom the children to having their teeth examined and cleaned by doing the work yourself. That will teach them to hold their mouths open while you poke about them with an orange stick wrapped in gauze, or a toothbrush filled with good paste.

"Take the child with you to the dentist's office when you are going to have your own teeth examined. That experience will break the ice. Let the child sit in the chair, look about him, and then go home with you. If the dentist is tactful he can establish friendly relationship with the child. Develop this relationship until the child can sit in the dentist's chair without screaming. It is a matter of experience, of training, and parent and dentist must work together.

Ask at the clinics, ask your County Dental Association, ask the school nurse and doctor for the address of a good dentist who will care for the teeth of young children. I assure you they need it.

REMODEL RUSS PRISON FOR HOUSING QUARTERS

Smolensk, U. S. S. R.—(AP)—The local municipal council here has partly relieved the housing shortage by converting the famous Smolensk prison, built 100 years ago during the reign of Nicholas I, for political prisoners, into a first class hotel with accommodations for some 1,000 persons.

The lower floor of the building, which formerly served as quarters for the prison guards, now contains a cooperative shop, bath, restaurant, postoffice, laundry and billiard room. The remodeling of the prison cost the government 900,000 roubles (about $450,000).

The Story of Sue

© 1929 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

CORRINNE'S first feeling, when she saw Mabel Smith waiting for her at noon, was one of relief. Now she could see that the girl put the emerald in a safety deposit box. Then she remembered that the detectives who were on her trail would probably be wise to this incident...might even think that she had given the girl the ring in order to dispose of it under her name. She decided that she would keep away from it all.

"I'm sorry, Mabel, but I can't go along," she said. "But you see I'm meeting my best boy friend and what's an emerald when a man is in the case?" She tried to make her voice genuine.

"Humph! Men are the means of getting the jewels," Mabel drawled back. "Go on and meet him. Has he any money?"

"Not much. Not even enough for a dollar down and a dollar a week on a dining room suite. Good luck!"

Walking along the street alone a minute later Corrinne saw Harry turn up the wide stone steps that led to his club. A colored doorman opened the door, bowing eagerly. Corrine turned and hurried on.

"I'm the modern version of Cinderella...I left the ball and can't ever get in again," she mused. "But just the same Harry will be surprised when that ring comes back. And I'll get busy and finish it all up now...right away."

The golden wig was a little crooked but she didn't know it. She was too concerned to care.

She was in the rest room at the store when Mabel came in.

"I got it," the girl began excitedly. "A whole box of my own and a key and everything. But what if I should lose the key?"

"You won't," Corrinne told her. "But I'll take it along if you want me to."

"Will you? Gee, I'd feel relieved." She handed it over at once, and Corrinne gazed at her, a little wondering. The girl seemed almost too willing to get the key out of her possession. Corrinne wondered if she, too, was familiar with the sinister charm of the greenblue stone.

An hour later Corrinne explained to Mabel that she had a headache and was getting off for the afternoon.

"A headache? And you're leaving for that? Say, the whole day is a headache in this marked-down alley. You'll get used to it. And if you want to hold your job you won't run away as though you were a Becker or a Lester at the first pain you get."

A Becker or a Lester! The two names rang through Corrinne's mind. She was a Becker now...but Mabel didn't know it...and she had suffered at the hands of Sybil Lester.

Corrinne merely smiled in answer, went upstairs to the employment office resigned, and went back to Sarah's. She would get Harry and take him along to the bank, accompanied by a detective, and prove her innocence to him. Then Mabel would be questioned, and in the end would admit the ring story and get it for them. Corrinne did not intend to move the stone, or touch it. She just wanted Harry to see it, to have a clue on which to work. It would not be necessary, so she reasoned, for Mabel to know that she was identified with the ring at all.

She slipped out of her black sales dress and started to dress up. Then she remembered that she had better not be seen as herself, and replaced the straight black gown, the gold wig and eyebrows.

At Harry's office she asked for him.

"He left word that he wasn't to be disturbed," his secretary told her. "I can't possibly let you in."

impossible to live happily with any of his own people, even though his devotion to them may be great.

Therefore, it's much better to break up and have separate establishments, when people's dispositions rub the wrong way. You might go on living with Lily and your mother for another ten years, and grow into a sour-minded-middle-aged man before you knew where you were—simply because daily friction with the feminine members of your family spoiled your disposition and took the sweetness out of life.

On the other hand you can live by yourself and keep up a much more pleasant contact with the people at home. You'll be surprised how attractive Lily appears when she is no longer in sole charge of your destiny. You'll find yourself liking her and admiring her, once you're far enough away on to get the proper perspective on her character. No one will suffer from this change, although Lily may resent your escape for a while. In the end however, she'll come around to your way of thinking. Her nerves will have a chance to recover, and she'll be a more amiable person entirely relieved of the necessity of keeping you up to the mark all the time.

Unless there are cogent financial reasons against it, any brother or sister who is constantly in wracked opposition to the family, ought to pack up and leave—get out and away before daily irritation and petty quarrels have made him or her thoroughly unhappy and soured.

BUNNY: Certainly he was fooling. And so for that matter were you. Next time in your letter do you claim to have been in love with the false lover who left you. On the contrary you admit quite airily that you very often cheated on him. Therefore why complain so bitterly when he pays you back in your own coin? You're both young and you've been playing a game of make-believe love and one of you is no more to blame than the other.

When you're really serious you have a right to demand serious devotion from a man—and not until then.

YOUR EARS PLAY IMPORTANT PART IN FACE BEAUTY

BY ALICIA HART

The new coiffures, thank Heaven, recognize the ears as part and parcel of the beauty that there is in a face.

Now that ears have come out into the open, there are all sorts of possibilities of improving your beauty by concentrating on the ears.

Have you ever, for instance, noticed how a certain pair of delicate, graceful, dangling earrings, will lengthen and give an exotic look to certain faces? If you haven't experimented with earrings and your own face, now is certainly the time to get busy.

Earrings of all types are in order. You can have delicate little earlines that hold twinkling jewels in the grip of fine gold or platinum and run up the outside of the ear for a short distance. Instead of hanging like earrings. You can have the most delicate of little jeweled earrings, the heaviest and most barbarian of primitive African ones.

I am often asked about the seriousness of piercing the ears for earrings. It is the simplest operation in the world, doesn't really hurt, is healed in three days and the only safe and sane thing to do if you are going in for earrings of any value. Earrings that screw on are a constant nuisance. They either hurt from being screwed on too tightly, or else they fall off and are lost.

If your ears are well-shaped and add to the beauty of your face, do get the habit of doing your hair so that they show. By curling your hair behind them, or wearing your hair so that just a bit of the top of them is cut off but the rest shows, or by showing the tops and not the lobes, you can get a new effect that may be stimulating, and certainly Cocoanut in pastel shades is now for sale, and it is very effective used in cake frostings, puddings or cookie coatings.

To remove the smell of onions from a saucepan or frying pan, place a little oatmeal in the pan and put it on the fire till the meal scorches. After turning out the meal, wipe the pan with a damp cloth.

Why send your silver mesh bag to the jeweler to be cleaned when you yourself can clean it by scrubbing it with a soft brush, baking soda and a little water?

When boiling fowls or fish add to the water the juice of a half a lemon. This will make them beautifully white.

Last, but not least, comes that important feature, make-up for your ears. Do you know that ears are now being rouged for evenings, just like lips? Just the lobes, usually, but a certain brunet stage beauty is creating quite a furore by parting her black curls so that the tops of her ears show through the curls, gleaming delicately red like her cheeks.

This make-up is for evening, only. Don't go rouging your ears for work. That is poor taste. For this little added touch is a glamorous one, saved for romantic occasions. (Copyright, 1931, NEA Service, Inc.)

COUNCIL WANTS UTILITY TAX IN GENERAL FUND

Resolution Authorizing Transfer to Be Presented at Next Meeting

Menasha.—Although temporarily held up at Tuesday's meeting of the common council for further consideration, a resolution transferring the taxes allowed on the water and light plant during 1930 to the general fund, is practically assured of passage at the next meeting of the city fathers. The taxes, totaling $16,779.78, plus a per cent interest on the city's debt, the plant, aggregating $9,320, will add $26,099.78 to general fund resources.

In urging passage of the resolution, Mayor N. G. Remmel stated that the city's several departments must be placed on a working basis. He explained how the schools, parks and similar departments had been systematized, and expressed urgency of similar action in city utilities.

"The city's finances are in excellent condition, utility equipment is paid for, and now it is the time to pay back the city's debt," he said. "Taxes and interest can be paid now, and the entire equity in the near future."

"If we stay near our budget limitations, we can come out on top of the heap at the end of the year and pay as we go."

Asks For Delay

Prior to action on the resolution, Alderman T. E. McGowan asked if each member of the water and light department is well acquainted with its details. Upon denial by several members of the committee, he moved that the matter be left for consideration until the next regular meeting and the motion was backed by a unanimous vote.

Mayor Remmel cited a number of things that should be done immediately. He recommended that Oak-st be extended and similar measures should be taken on Sixth-st. He urged sever construction on parts of Eighth and Tenth-sts and stated that plans for provision of sewer facilities at Brighton beach were already under way. In reference to the latter project, the mayor stated that pipe had been purchased and immediate action ordered.

Ballots Authorized

The city clerk was authorized to secure referendum ballots relative to the proposed water and light commission, for use in the municipal election, April 7. The petition from city voters, urging the creation of a commission, was presented to the council at their meeting of Oct. 16.

The city attorney, city engineer, and as many members of the council as possible should attend the water level meeting in the Memorial building Feb. 24, the council decided. Alderman Small stated that a considerable amount of damage would accrue to a number of Menasha residents if the level of Lake Winnebago were raised and that Menasha should abandon her neutral position and take a definite stand against the higher level. Alderman McGowan pointed out that the identity of those backing the high level plan was a question of paramount importance.

A petition for permission to construct a concrete store building on the corner of Racine and Eighth-sts was received from George Strigel, 786 Racine-st, and referred to the city attorney and committee on zoning ordinance for neighborhood stores in that vicinity made committee action imperative.

Discuss Water Rates

The question of water rate reduction was raised by Alderman Heckbrodt in a request for a report from the board of public works. Mayor Remmel explained that the board had been unable to make sufficient research and would report at an early meeting.

A motion to rebate a street oiling assessment to Joseph Ottman, Brodset, was passed upon motion by Alderman Baldwin. A petition for rebate on light bill payments due to lack of notification of combination rates, was received from John S. Sensenbrenner and referred to the water and light committee.

The board of public works was authorized to purchase gas masks and additional oxygen tanks for fire department use, and a clean up of the police station interior will be considered at an early meeting of board members. A suggestion that the city purchase the 4,000 feet of cable bridge repair lumber was left for further consideration.

City engineers will attend the twenty-third annual convention of the Engineering society of Wisconsin at Madison, Feb. 13, at the city's expense. It was decided new bonds for Joseph Martell and Alex Elumski, police officers were accepted after sanction by the finance committee.

The January report of the Judiciary committee revealed $10 in court fines and $2.25 in police fees returned to the city. The last quarterly report of the auditor of weights and measures was also read and placed on file.

In the second play, "The Most Foolish Virgin," a glimpse of the Orient was shown in fantasy form. The parts were taken with aptness by Thelma and Marion LaFont, Helen Bradley, Velma Peterson, Sadona Elmer, Ellen Brown, Charlotte Durham, Marjorie Bishop, Dorothy Kelson, Catherine Evans, Norbert Redlin and Oris Simmons.

NEW TEMPERANCE EDUCATION SYSTEM IN SUNDAY SCHOOLS

Chicago.—(P)—The International Council of Religious Education announced today that it had inaugurated a new method of teaching temperance in the Sunday schools, part of which would involve tests of the pupils' instinctive feelings toward the subject.

The tests are to be made by asking the pupils to cross out as fast as they read them the words which are disagreeable to them in the following list:

"Anti-Saloon league, bootlegger, beer, alcoholism, saloon, law enforcement, padlock, Canadian plan, wine, cocktail, temperance, ketch, propaganda, prosperity, beer stein, Capone, coast guard, home brew, pledge signing, racketeer, local option, Volstead, W. C. T. U., Jones law, run runner, machine gun, law observance, personal liberty, and Hoover commission."

Each word test, the council said, would be followed by another in which the student will be asked to indicate rapidly the truth or falsity of various statements on the subject, such as:

"Alcohol is a poison."

"Alcohol increases happiness."

Sponsors of the idea said the new method would be used in 52 denominations, representing 85 per cent of the Protestant church membership in the United States.

Some of General Butler's observations on suppressing crime:

ENGINEER WARNS OF COMING HAZARD TO COAL MINERS

New York.—(P)—Coal which explodes like soda pop is a coming hazard in American mining.

Warning about this strange type of mine burst was issued today by George S. Rice, chief mining engineer of the U. S. Bureau of Mines, in a talk to the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers.

The explosions are "cold"—no spark starts them—but they are extremely dangerous. They are caused by an instantaneous outburst of gas that has been stored under high pressure in rocks, but particularly in soft coal.

The explosive gas is frequently exactly the same stuff which "charges" soft drinks, namely carbon dioxide. The surrounding earth forms the container, which like a bottle, makes a big blowing possible when miners picks puncture a deposit of gas impregnated coal.

But after the coal has been removed from the earthen bottle there is no more danger of explosion. The gas evaporates harmlessly.

Sometimes these explosions are caused also by hydrocarbon gases, which form the explosive element in gasoline.

FLASHES OF LIFE

Quebec.—The village of Asbestos, Que., is to be razed because of the progress of the industry which gave it its name. The best leads for further mining run under the streets and houses of the village of 5,000 persons. The mine owners have bought 99 per cent of the village and a bill pending in the legislature would enable them to acquire the rest.

FIND WOMAN'S BODY IN HER APARTMENT

Towel Tightly Bound Around Throat of Dancer—Hold Suicide Theory

Chicago.—(P)—With a towel tightly bound around the throat, the body of Miss Lillian Anderson, 24, professional dancer, was found yesterday in her apartment. Dr. A. T. Benson, coroner's physician, said death was due to strangulation, and the girl evidently had been dead since last Saturday, when she was last seen alive.

Police, though unable to state positively that it was suicide, said they held to this theory, pointing out that the apartment showed no signs of disturbance. However, they admitted that the method of self-destruction would be most difficult to carry out. The body was in such condition that no marks of violence could be detected.

Spots found in the throat by Dr. Benson pointed to possible poisoning, he said, but a definite statement waited the outcome of an analysis of the stomach contents.

Miss Anderson, divorced five years ago from Henry McGee, whose present location is unknown, was the mother of a 7-year-old son who lived with her mother, Mrs. Regina Jahnke.

Evidently Miss Anderson had been about to bathe, as the tub was filled and water still running from a faucet. Her handbag was found floating in the tub. Since it contained no money, robbery and murder was the opinion of a few police officials.

BUYERS LIGHT WINDOWS

Paris.—To save on expenses of lighting show windows several local shops have installed automatic systems which light the windows only when shoppers are passing by. The electric cell which sets up a current as a shopper passes the window. The sudden lighting up of a dark window also acts to attract a shopper's attention.

Tandragree, Ireland, will exempt new houses from taxation for several years.

New York.—"Alas," writes Will Barn Allen White in the New York University Daily News, "the vast majority of parents who send their children to school send them there for the social advantages, hoping that with these advantages they will see the propriety of acquiring a certain veneer of manners, a certain sweet ionic of intellectual training."

College Must Stress General Training, Wriston Tells Civic Clubs

EMPHASIS NOT NOW PLACED ON SPECIAL WORK

Future Business Man Must Understand Fundamental Principles, He Says

That the college, in training men for business, must place its emphasis upon a thorough understanding of fundamental principles, rather than upon specific training for a specific task in other words, give them a broad, general training instead of a specialized one, was the essence of an address, The College and Business, delivered by Dr. Henry M. Wriston, president of Lawrence college, at a combined meeting of Rotary, Lions and Kiwanis clubs and members of the chamber of commerce, at Hotel Northern Tuesday noon.

Four years ago the emphasis in education as it affected prospective businessmen was upon segregated and specific techniques, such as salesmanship, retail management and advertising, he said. Today educators and businessmen have come to realize that training for business, if it is to be effective, must encompass the principles involved, so that the specific techniques may be learned with the principles as a basis.

Dr. Wriston told of the things that led up to the realization that the specialist was inadequate to cope with the situation. He showed how the confusing number of separate courses preparatory for entrance into business did not fit a man for the task ahead, how the habit of job analysis proved that character, as moulded by a man's total life and not by his business life alone, was a significant element in success, how the process of judgment as to values and skill in organization is necessary to both the manager of a mill and a professor. He described the swing of the pendulum from the emphasis and the study of specific things to principles, and listed the qualities the college should give those training for business.

Neely Students Aided
In an attempt to wipe out the misunderstanding that the college is not interested in the boy who has to work his way through college, and that the present athletic policy has injured Lawrence, Dr. Wriston prefaced his speech with a discussion of the aid given by the college to needy students through loans and employment, of the present athletic policy, enrollment figures, and the increasing endowment. He ended his preliminary remarks with a tribute to Dr. Samuel Plantz, president of the college for 30 years, which brought an enthusiastic ovation from the 175 men present.

"I did not raise all that money," he said, "Thank God for devoted trustees, for public spirited citizens, and for the good will built up by Dr. Plantz. It seems to me that in 30 years of service which brought the college from bankruptcy to a post of leadership in the middle-west was the most conspicuous service performed by any citizen in this community, and I am ashamed that the only memorial for such a life and work is a little sun dial stuck in the shrubbery by the chapel. It is time that the citizens of this community where he lived and worked, created an adequate and representative memorial as tangible evidence of their appreciation of so significant a life."

Outlines Transition
In describing the history of specialized education in business, its results, and the transition from this kind of training to one of general background, Dr. Wriston told how years ago an effort was made to give separate courses for separate businesses, until the courses, for which the materials were utterly inadequate, were multiplied in a confusing number. The student was forced to decide on a specific business long before he knew anything about the opening and where he would find employment, all because early in his college life he had to enter specific training for a specific work. Often the graduate entered the field of business with that "little knowledge" that is a dangerous thing, and his capacity for adaptation to the circumstances in which he found himself was actually reduced by his misconception of his own competence. In addition to all these factors, the astounding changes going on constantly within business itself made it necessary that the method of training be changed.

The techniques and the tricks of the trade became obsolete almost as soon as they had been learned, and students who had taken courses in mill management found that the material was not applicable to the altered circumstances of business. "Consequently," he said, "the pendulum which had swung so far toward specific training that every college and every university tended to multiply courses in business administration began to swing in the opposite direction. The University of Wisconsin, for example, four years ago abandoned the first two years of its commerce course. It stopped teaching in those years the pre-business courses which had been put into the catalog, and transferred the emphasis during those two years into the studies in the liberal arts. It confined work in business administration to the last two years of college and to graduate training. What went on at the University has gone on elsewhere, in some places to an even greater degree. Great corporations like the American Telephone and Telegraph company made studies to determine what constituted the elements of success so far as college training for business was concerned, and they discovered that there is a very high and important relationship between the quality of a man's life in college and the quality of his performance in business and in life. On correlation between the kinds of courses

Club Speaker

DR. HENRY M. WRISTON

General training, rather than specialized training, must be stressed by colleges in moulding students for future business men. Dr. Henry M. Wriston, president of Lawrence college, declared here yesterday at a joint meeting of civic clubs with the chamber of commerce.

taken in college and the kind of work done in business."

Reviews Job Analysis
Reviewing some of the results of the job analysis accomplished by the American Council of Education, the American Telephone and Telegraph company, he said.

"After you have set down in precise terms all of the qualifications, and then have found the man who has those qualifications, he may still be a failure. The head of the American Council has said, 'They lack the warmth of personal color. Like our machines they pulsate with power but lack the divine spark that would make them live as men. The missing link was finally found in literature. Clearly a living job specification must reveal spiritual forces at work on material things.' That is to say, the emphasis upon the total life of the individual was the emphasis that was much more significant than the emphasis upon his specific training and technique."

"The second thing discovered by the habit of job analysis was that, when jobs were picked to pieces, and the essential skills necessary to their successful prosecution analyzed, it was discovered that upon the higher levels, represented by management, the common elements were many more and much more significant than had been supposed. I read recently that the qualities of a good manager of a mill and of a good professor are not by any means as greatly different as most people suppose. Both are dealing with materials, both are dealing with people."

Must Develop Powers
"These two results of the habit of job analysis revealed the desirability of laying emphasis upon principles and personalities. It brought out the fact that you should not merely train a man in certain performances more or less skilled, but that you should develop the man so that he might exercise his powers, all of his powers and not merely his mental powers, in the solution of the problems of the modern world."

Speaking of the inability of the specialist to rule the world, Dr. Wriston declared, "In business, as in every other field today, the specialist, however great he may be, is subordinate to the man who is in essence an amateur, but whose skill consists in his capacity to take a broad view of the situation, to take into account not only the technical situations, but to take equally into account the great business trends, the psychology of human behaviour, and all of the other forces and factors which may affect the wisdom or unwisdom of a specific decision."

Prices Destroyed
"The production specialist two years ago bent all of his energies to production. By so doing he produced more than the market could absorb, and by doing that he destroyed the prices which formed the basis of his market, and the reason for his production."

"The moment the depression came, men began to say that the government must bear some share of responsibility, that the methods and amount of taxation, that political decisions with respect to combinations and rates and competition and tariffs and construction of public buildings and roads, and decisions and rules governing hours of labor were all involved. Therefore, the significance of business men having the largest views of business affairs and the largest participation in business affairs became clear.

"That applies to a community. If a community gets its finances so involved that it cannot construct adequate school buildings, if its children go out from high school handicapped by crowded and unhealthful conditions which affect the nature and quality of instruction, that community is simply undermining its own future."

"The absence of broad views on these matters leads us to abandon the magnificent opportunities that come to us from the foresight of our fathers. In the trackless forest they laid out a central street so broad as to be adequate for modern traffic. Now we adorn the beautiful ravines which are the charm and glory of the city with tin cans, and make of them nests for cockroaches, so that we may be publicized from coast to coast as the town where the aldermen go out with flashlights to snipe at rats and where the smell of burning cockroaches obnoxiously perfumes a whole calendar year. When the world is crowded, and when cities need parks, we will fill a glorious ravine so that we may erect a few monitor buildings, to congest traffic by so much the more. I mention these matters to emphasize what you all know—that the businessmen of this community are not taking as active and intelligent a part in the decision of public questions as would be desirable, and that their neglect has long time effects which are unfortunate."

Lists Needed Qualities
Dr. Wriston listed the significant qualities the college should seek to give those who are training for business—the foundation principles of psychology, so they may learn how to deal with people and understand the essential unity of life; principles of economics and political science, so they can reason intelligently, clearly and without fallacy as to the significance of prices, wages, rents, profits, the effects of tariffs, restrictions and controls; training in expressing their ideas clearly; appreciation of the values of life, among them the significance of beauty; and last of all, the inculcation of the will to solve and the habit of solving problems."

"This kind of training and these emphases, he said, will draw into the field the best minds and the highest characters. It will send out into the business life of this community young men who know the record of the past, who understand the significance of the present, but whose faces are turned toward the future, whose ingenuity has been stimulated as the ingenuity of the pioneer was stimulated, through the solution of problems."

lems, and who will bring into the life of our city those qualities which will make it youthful and significant as a center of industrial, mercantile, civic, artistic and educational progress."

Wants Individual Growth
In explaining that the educational process is not one of filling one full of facts, the speaker illustrated with the story of the man who memorized the Encyclopedia Britannica. "He did not know anything. If he had he would have had sense enough to know that he should not have studied the encyclopedia. The thing with which college is concerned is individual growth, and people do not grow by stuffing. They grow strong by exercise, and by undertaking things which extend their powers through effort. There must, of course, be a body of knowledge with which one can work and reason, but that body of knowledge alone is utterly inadequate."

That a large proportion of boys want to go from college into business was proved by Dr. Wriston with statistics from the state of Pennsylvania. Of 4,500 who specified major interest: 1.3 per cent specified Latin, 1 per cent Greek, while 213 per cent had economics as their major interest, 103 per cent engineering, 93 per cent chemistry, 6 per cent education, and 22 per cent English.

Physics had only 3-10 of 1 per cent, zoology, German, psychology, biology, botany, drama, Spanish, mineology, art, sociology and religion each less than 1 per cent. Inasmuch as half the 4,500 students were girls, it was manifest that an exceedingly large percentage of boys were headed for business. He added that the college aptitude tests given in Wisconsin this year told much the same story.

HI-Y TO MEET
The Beta chapter of the Hi-Y will meet tonight at the Y. M. C. A. Officers are Howard Rietz, president, Chester Casert, vice president; John Moyle, treasurer; Robert Wichman, sergeant at arms.

CORPS REHEARSAL
The valley council boy scout drum and bugle corps will meet at Moose hall at 7:30 Wednesday evening for weekly rehearsal. The rehearsal will be directed by Cloyd Schroeder.

GET MANY REQUESTS ON FARM PURCHASES
Madison—Requests for information on buying farms have greatly increased during the past three months in letters coming to the department of agriculture and markets, states Ralph E. Ammon, chief of the division of fairs and state development.

"This demand which is coming from cities may be attributed to the unemployment situation which is turning the eyes of folks toward the farm where they may earn their bread," says Mr. Ammon.

"Many of the requests," he says, "are coming from men who have no means with which to buy land, while there is an occasional request from one who does have some funds."

"Contentious and prompt attention is given all of these requests, but these without funds and without knowledge of agriculture are cautioned about making a venture into farming under those conditions. A few farms in northern Wisconsin have been sold during the past two months as the result of these inquiries. It is the policy of the department to encourage only those who are likely to stay to buy the many available farms in northern Wisconsin."

Coxey Won't Apologize To Farm Woman

Aged "General" Denies His Men Carried Off Cooking Utensils

Massillon, Ohio — (P)—The final act of a little drama begun in 1894, when "General" Jacob Coxey led his historic march of unemployed on Washington, was concluded here today.

The players were the white haired "general," a Minnesota farm woman, now middle aged, and two letters.

Coxey today wrote the woman, whose name he did not divulge, refusing to apologize for the behavior of a group of men who visited her home on their way to join his "army."

The men, the woman claims, camped on her father's property on the banks of the Red river, near Moorehead, Minn. They were rough and unkempt, and although she could speak little English, she understood they were cold and hungry. She gave them a dressed hog, some vegetables, and cooking utensils, and her only speech was a smile.

"Bring the utensils back," she asked them, and then retired, while the itinerant group made merry. Next morning the men were gone, and so were the utensils.

Years passed. She learned to read, write and speak English. She remembered the event, and wrote the "general."

"I was just a green country girl," the letter said, "couldn't write English. Just saw your name mentioned in the papers, and I guess you are still broke. So all I want is an apology."

Coxey said an apology will not be forthcoming.

DECREASED TRADE FAVORED ON STREET

Council Committee Opposed to Subway Project on Lawe-st

The abandonment of plans to construct an underground passage at the intersection of Lawe-st and South River-st will be recommended to the common council Wednesday night by the street and bridge committee, following a meeting held at city hall Monday afternoon.

Instead the committee recommends that the grade at the intersection be decreased by about two feet before South River-st is paved. They also advise filling in on the S. Lawe-st hill to make the rise from the bridge to the top of the hill more gradual. Making South River-st a 32-foot concrete street from Johnston to Lawe-st is part of the recommendation.

The committee was unanimous in its attitude that the cost of a subway at this intersection, estimated at about $20,000, is not warranted as long as there is so little traffic on the Lawe-st hill.

Several other matters of minor importance were discussed by the committee.

Cleveland — (P)—Ohio's metropolis is winning its fight against the criminal.

This was announced today by Dan E. Cull, acting president of the Cleveland Association for Criminal Justice, while many other large cities of the country were combating crime increases.

Crimes of violence, he said, declined 25 per cent in 1930 under 1929. Despite the financial depression, which usually swells to a great degree the number involved in crimes against property, such as burglary, house breaking and larceny, these gained only 11 per cent. When prosperity returns Cull looks for this figure to be sharply reduced.

Cull attributed the lighter criminal burden to firmer police action and more active prosecutions.

QUILL AND SCROLL SPONSORS CONTEST

Students Offered Opportunity of Creative Writing

Creative writing for budding authors and authoresses of Appleton high school is being furthered in a contest sponsored by the Appleton high school chapter of Quill and Scroll, national journalistic organization.

All the first places will be published in a booklet under the direction of Ellen Balliet, senior student and president of Quill and Scroll, who will edit the booklet. It will be a representative literary example of Appleton high school ability in creative work.

The only rules governing the contributions are that each piece of work must be original, neatly typed, and editorials must not exceed 500 words in length. The committee which formulated these qualifications includes Ellen Balliet, Delia Van Den Bosch and Thelma Nohr. # BRITISH BISHOPS NOT FOES OF SUNDAY FILMS

London — (P)—Support for Sunday movies came from an unexpected quarter Tuesday when a council of bishops and free church leaders, meeting to consider social questions, proposed that motion picture shows on the Sabbath be placed on a sort of local option system. Recently the Lord's Day act was invoked to prevent Sunday movies part of whose proceeds were donated to charity.

MAN GETS DIVORCE ON CRUELTY CHARGE

Kobs told the court his wife had severe fits of temper and that sometimes she broke the furniture. Mrs. Kobs, who did not contest the suit, was given custody of two minor children. The Kobs were married June 26, 1913, and separated Dec. 20, 1930.

DON'T TRIFLE WITH A COLD

Break It Up In a Jiffy With Something You KNOW Does the Job

The thing to do with a cold is to break it up in a hurry — with something you know does the job, not to trifle with a lot of trick ideas and remedies. Colds are too dangerous to experiment with.

Get a box of Hill's Cascara Quinine at any drug store. Take two tablets now. Then follow directions on box. Drink lots of water, too — that's all.

Soon that miserable, aching feeling begins to go. The cold breaks up. The poisons are moved from your system. The world looks like an altogether different place.

Those results come because Hill's goes back to first principles by going to the seat of the trouble. It's not a new-fangled fancy idea but a tried and proved way that's made to do ONE THING WELL: to knock a cold in a jiffy.

Hill's costs only a few cents. Use it for quick relief after everything else you've tried has failed.

BLACK FORCED TO SURRENDER ON FILIBUSTER

But New Blocking Tactics Are Threatened in Upper House

Washington. (AP)—The senate's latest one man filibuster played out last night and let a bill get through, but a renewal of the blocking tactics was promised.

Senator Black, Democrat, Alabama, who dragged the senate into a night session by putting into effect his threat to talk against time at every opportunity to force action on Muscle Shoals legislation, had to yield finally to exhaustion and to invocation of a rule which prevents a senator from speaking more than twice in a day on the same subject.

The break made possible completion of the senate's work on the billion dollar appropriation bill for the independent offices—the veterans' bureau, shipping board, interstate commerce, federal trade and other commissions. This was the second supply bill of the year disposed of by the senate. The house still must approve the conference report. At the same time the senate sent to conference a measure carrying funds for the District of Columbia and passed some minor legislation.

Black began his filibuster at 4 o'clock. His announced purpose was to block the vital appropriation bills for the government departments in order to force the senate-house conference committee to reach an agreement on a measure for disposal of the great power and nitrate plant on the Tennessee river. The conferees are to meet again tomorrow. So far a majority of them have agreed to virtually all the demands of Senator Norris, Republican, Nebraska, which center on government operation of the shoals power plant, but the house representatives have held out some points and an agreement has been viewed as almost impossible.

Black forced a roll call on a motion to take up the independent offices supply bill, showing 54 to 18 in its favor. The Alabamian talked some more but lost the floor when he sought to resume for a second time after a quorum call.

Senate leaders said they were not worried but were confident the necessary legislation would be passed regardless of further long speaking.

APPLETON CONTINUES FINE HEALTH RECORD

The health of the city retained its good record of the winter last week, when only four cases of contagion were reported to Theodore Sanders, deputy health officer. The list included one case of diphtheria and three of chicken pox.

Mr. and Mrs. Mary Meyers, Kenosha, visited Monday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Beltz, 239 N. Green Bay-st.

Your Birthday

If February 19th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9 a. m. to 11 a. m., from 1 p. m. to 2 p. m. and from 5 p. m. to 7:30 p. m. The danger periods are from 11:30 a. m. to 12:30 p. m. and from 3 p. m. to 4:30 p. m.

February 19th promises much. Many opportunities will present themselves, while few complications will arise. In almost all lines of endeavor—and endeavor is not speculation—a material advancement is assured. After sundown, the astrological atmosphere will be benign and amorous.

Children born on this February 19th will be moody and undependable. Their temperaments will be mercurial, and these traits, in adulthood, will not inure to their material advancement. They will live in a world of their own creation and will be happier alone than with companionship.

If you were born on a February 19th, the astrological signs denote weakness of character, in spite of an exceptional intellect. You absorb information very easily. You never have to burn the midnight oil in order to learn. You, too, are very versatile, and, speaking generally, can do all things well. You are, however, too much swayed by outside influences, or by your environment, to "put your better foot forward." Purposefulness in life is lacking. You swim with the tide; never battle against it.

As a companion, you are delightful. You easily accommodate yourself to the whims and wishes of others. You never force them to adapt their ideas to yours. Contradiction and argument are never used by you as weapons. Your friends like you, but they do not ever seek your advice or counsel. They know you would only echo their own thoughts.

As a lover, you are very attractive. As a life-long mate, the party of the other part will soon tire of the glamor of a too-ready acquiescence, and the absence of an honest difference of opinion. Your innate charm, your all too willing complaisance, will, so the Stars say, earn for you a modicum of material success and an absence of disharmony. You will, however,

COMMITTEE FROWNS ON PASSAGE PLANS

Recommendation Against Law-st Project Ready for Common Council

Although the battle front seems reasonably serene, now that the garbage disposal question is decided there are two or three bombshells that might explode at the meeting of the common council Wednesday evening.

The street and bridge committee will recommend that plans to construct an underground passage at the intersection of Law-st. and South River-st. be abandoned which may precipitate one argument. It is rumored that there will be a protest from Appleton-st property owners against the widening of the street, which would open the way for the rehush of the pros and cons on this question.

Mayor John Goodland Jr. will ask that the collection of rubbish be referred to some committee for immediate action, and that amendments to the present garbage collection ordinance be turned over to the ordinance committee. The ordinance will have to be amended to provide for a maximum charge for garbage collection, and a minimum number of times for collection.

Wigs were commonly worn in Egypt some 3000 years ago.

DOCTORS WANT TO REVISE MEDICAL BOARD PROCEEDURE

Suggest Abolition of Obsolete Requirements for Appointments

Madison—(P) — A bill introduced in the assembly yesterday by request of the state medical society would wipe out obsolete requirements on the governor for appointments to the state board of medical examiners.

The state medical society points out that in the last ten years there have been but eight homeopaths and no eclectics admitted to the state, as compared to 1,019 graduates of other schools and that the board of medical examiners no longer holds special examinations for the various schools of practice, except for osteopaths, whose representation remains unchanged.

Other assembly bills introduced yesterday:

La Bar—If a non-resident on death is possessed of real or tangible personal property located in more than one county, and administration shall be granted in one, the inheritance tax shall be determined and adjusted in any county in the same manner.

Guidt—Highway commission shall have available for town officers information regarding wholesale prices of materials used in highway improvement and fuel used in highway machinery and apparatus.

Groschmidt—Town boards of the second, third, or fourth class shall not levy a tax for any specified purpose or include in its budget any item the amount of which constitutes five per cent or more of the total tax levied or the budget for the year until the levy be submitted to the electors and adopted by a majority.

HOOVER STOCK AGAIN RISING IN METROPOLIS

Attitude of New York Toward President Is Shifting Gradually

(Copyright, 1931, by Post Pub. Co.)
New York —(CPA)— While New York city does not rate itself as a political barometer nevertheless it is always interesting to observe the way the financial and business community here reflects the popularity of a president of the United States. For many months Hoover political stock has been going down steadily and has not had any recovery whatsoever until this week when a substantial jump in the popular opinion of Herbert Hoover was noted. The business men of course are by no means a unit in their political or party affiliations but in respect of party the anti-Hoover sentiment has been wide spread. But in the last few days remarks such as these: "Hoover is coming back a little," have been heard. This correspondent was so much surprised at the turn of sentiment that he asked several business men to explain why they thought there was a recovery, even moderate in extent, in the Hoover stock. The invariable answer was that as congress has been growing more unpopular the president has been acquiring sympathy.

Tide Against Hoover
In other words the sudden bonus legislation which Coolidge vetoed has given Hoover an opportunity to go against the political tide and this is something which the business world is inclined to appraise highly.

The theory that congress has been playing politics and that Mr. Hoover has been trying to stop raids on the treasury has taken hold in the metropolis and many of those who were lambasting the president a few weeks ago have suddenly discovered that he has been fighting their battle without even their moral support.

Certainly the business elements look upon the bonus as unsound at this time and there is a tendency to anticipate a presidential veto and regard it as a courageous act. Coincidentally, however, the business community is beginning to realize that there will be a bonus over the president's veto but this doesn't detract from the point of view that Mr. Hoover is asserting himself aggressively as a leader in this particular piece of legislation.

It is apparent also here that the financial and business world has been perplexed by the varying estimates as to the ultimate cost of the bonus. When those house leaders who are usually regular, including Speaker Longworth, deserted the administration, many business men began to feel that President Hoover was playing a lone hand and that he would not be able to retain any further control even over the members of his own party. Just some evidence of support came from Republican strongholds because, after all, most of the financial and business leaders are regular Republicans both here and in other big cities. New York has a rating influence and what business men here think and say is often distributed throughout the country especially since there are so many thousands of people here on business errands every day.

Just at the moment the business world is nervous about the extra session and wants to know more than anything else whether congress is going to continue in session.

SEVEN WOMEN ATTEND CLUB LEADERS' MEET

Seven rural home economics club leaders attended a meeting Monday at the home of Mrs. G. C. Hanke at New London. Miss Harriet Thompson, county home demonstration agent, had charge of the meetings and conducted the lesson in eleven fitting. The leaders will now return to their homes and repeat the instructions.

Four other leaders' meetings are scheduled for this week. They are: Tuesday, at home of Mrs. John Schoettler, town of Greenville; Wednesday, Mrs. E. Samuelson at Nicholas; Thursday, Mrs. C. Wolk at Seymour; and Friday at auditorium at Stephentown.

Mother Faces Electric Chair

GET MANY ENTRIES IN POSTER CONTEST

Judges Will Name Winners in Rural School Competition This Week

Many entries are being received by A. G. Meating, county superintendent of schools, in the contest sponsored by him among the rural schools of the county. The contest closes this week. To enter the contest the students have prepared posters based on America's ten commandments as conceived by George Washington. The contest was the idea of Mr. Meating and Circuit Judge Edgar V. Werner.

In an effort to have every school know and understand the commandments the students were asked to design the posters and the best ones are to receive cash prizes. The judging will take place soon. Copies of the best posters will be sent to every school in the county for farming to become a permanent part of the school's equipment. The ten commandments are:

1. Cease sons of America lamenting our separation; go on and confirm, by your wisdom the fruits of our joint counsels, joint efforts and common dangers.
2. Reverence religion.
3. Diffuse knowledge throughout your land.

Complete Plans For New Aeronautics Institute

Akron, Ohio—(AP)—Akron will solidify its position as the principal city in the United States for development of lighter-than-air flying this fall when the new Aeronautics Institute of the University of Akron is expected to be completed.

Work on the Institute, funds for which have been donated by the Guggenheim foundation, will begin this spring, President George F. Zook of the university, announced today.

Tentative plans for the structure of the institute building, which will be at the Akron municipal airport near the dock of the Goodyear-Zeppelin corporation where the many dirigible Akron is being constructed, have been completed.

Provision will be made for the creation of artificial atmospheres such as those encountered by Zeppelins over oceans and mountains. There will be shops for the construction of model airships and airship structural equipment as well as laboratories for the testing of instruments, accessories.

The artificial atmospheres will be carried in a vertical, wind tunnel, which will occupy a large part of the building and will be like only one other tunnel in the country. It will consist of two vertical pipes, each approximately six feet in diameter and extending 60 feet high through two stories of the building. Air will be blown through the tunnel at velocities equalling those of gales and hurricanes.

The building, approximately 70 feet square, will consist of three stories and a basement.

The director of the laboratory will be Dr. Theodore Von Karman, and assistant director, Dr. Troller, two prominent German aeronautical scientists. Research will be conducted under fellowships from the California Institute of Technology.

Santiago, Chile — Walters must do up. The government director of tourist travel has established a school which emphasizes spic and span uniforms.

COMPILE DATA FOR PHONE DIRECTORY

H. M. Fellows, manager of the Wisconsin Telephone company, has announced that compilation of listings and numbers for a new issue of the Appleton telephone directory is nearing completion. The new directory will be ready for printing on Feb. 23, and will be distributed in April.

The telephone directory is vital to furnishing efficient and satisfactory telephone service, and great effort is exercised by the company to produce as accurate and complete a directory of telephone numbers and listings as possible.

Telephone users are invited by Mr. Fellows to cooperate in this endeavor by notifying the telephone business office before Feb. 23 of any changes desired in telephone listings or service so they can be included in the new directory.

Moundsville, W. Va.—Mike Noval will obey orders promptly, especially when they come from a judge. Mike was in court as a witness. "Take the chair," said the judge. Mike started for the door with it.

STOCKS FAIL TO PAY ATTENTION TO BONUS TALK

Treasury Issues, on Other Hand, Are Slightly Lower Just Now

By Charles F. Speare
Copyright, 1931, By Cons. Press
Wall Street, New York —(CPA)—
With the prospect that the soldiers' bonus bill will pass both houses of congress and eventually be carried over the president's veto, speculative Wall Street Tuesday accepted the situation with good grace and went on buying stocks at new high prices for the year. On the other hand, there was more reflection of the possible trials of those responsible for government financing in connection with the bonus in the market for treasury issues. These were fractionally lower.
It is significant of the change in speculative sentiment in recent weeks that stocks have paid little attention to the bonus agitation. One theory is that the bonus payments may lead to a certain amount of inflation and a revival of demand for certain kinds of manufactured goods.
Popularity recently has been most conspicuous in the shares of companies expected to be temporarily benefitted by the bonus bill. However, in the judgment of those who have studied this most closely, it will be a long time before the recipients of such benefits as the measure provides actually obtain them.
There is a decided difference of opinion among those who specialize in government securities as to the effect on outstanding liberty bonds and treasury notes of the bonus plan in its present, and probably, its ultimate form. So far there has been no evidence that the large holders of government issues, namely the banks, have been sellers of any considerable scale. Such bonds have been coming into the market lately are from smaller institutions. They, for the most part, are offering bonds on which they have profits. The general price level of governments today does not bear out the predictions that it will be necessary to finance the bonus measure at coupon rates which would seriously affect the price structure of existing government loans.

During the testimony in Washington, there was considerable hysterical and exaggerated opinion expressed covering the likely policy of the treasury in raising money to meet the new emergency. For instance, some bankers claimed that it might be necessary to bring out a long term government bond at rates of interest ranging from 4 1/2 to 6 per cent. A government bond expert commenting on this, said today: "Such an opinion is more surprising than justified."
Rate More Likely
He was willing to wager that the government could sell a long term new issue at a coupon rate of 3 1/2 per cent, or at least at a maximum of 3 3/4 per cent.
Such a rate seems to be more likely and one that is reflected more closely in existing prices of old bonds than the rates which were suggested as a part of the propaganda against any kind of bonus measure that would compel additional government loans.
It is quite true that the treasury officials are in a dilemma in view of the probable deficit of $500,000,

000 this fiscal year, the maturing 3 1/2 per cent treasury notes amounting to over $1,100,000,000 which must be paid off within the next month and with respect to the plan which they have had in mind for refunding the Liberty bonds whose optional date of redemption is that of 1933. Intimations were heard today that the so-called sinking fund which was supposed to contain about $700,000,000 and was to be applicable for accommodation under the bonus bill, could not be in a form available to the treasury in the new situation.
In other words that it was more of a bookkeeping credit than one presented in cash or marketable securities.
Considerable favorable comment was heard today on the suggestion of former Governor Stokes of New Jersey that the annual debt payments of the government be suspended temporarily in order to assist with the bonus financing. There is an increasing body of bankers and business men who are strongly of the opinion that it is an unwise policy to be retiring public debt at the present rate and at a time when the treasury deficit is expanding.
They feel that, having reached its maximum figure on Aug. 31, 1930, there is no occasion for going on with the same policy now that the treasury receipts are being materially reduced by the fall in income tax receipts and international revenue receipts and when emergency appropriations, due to the business depression, have to be undertaken.
When Napoleon was at the height of his power his rule extended from Lubeck to beyond Rome, embracing France proper, the Netherlands, part of western and northwestern Germany, all western Italy as far south as the kingdom of Naples, together with the Illyrian provinces

Thinks Farm Products May Be Source Of Rubber

Akron, Ohio—(P)—Use of American farm products such as wheat and potatoes for the manufacture of rubber on a large scale is seen as a possibility by Prof. H. S. Simmons, head of the department of chemistry of the University of Akron, if the rubber industry would pool its research activities.
Professor Simmons, backed by the University of Akron, is advocating the establishment of a rubber research institute here, which would go thoroughly into such important problems as the theories of vulcanization and the formation of raw rubber.
He believes that the institute, established at the university at a cost estimated around $300,000, would result in a saving of millions to the rubber industry.
Backing for the institute is being delayed by the business depression.
Simmons said Tuesday adding that he had the approval of many rubber company executives.
"There is much duplication of effort in rubber research laboratories," said Professor Simmons, who has done extensive rubber research himself, both into fundamental problems as well as practical applications.
"Often, when I go into a laboratory of a rubber factory, I am asked to keep secret what is going on there

SEES ADVERTISING AS BUSINESS AID

Milwaukee Ad Club, State Paper League Hears Gil T. Hodges

Milwaukee—An increase in advertising as a means of overcoming the depression was urged by Gil T.
Hodges, New York, president of the Advertising Federation of America and chairman of the board of directors of the New York Sun. Mr.
Hodges spoke before the Milwaukee Advertising club in the Athletic club Monday, and before the Wisconsin Daily Newspaper Advertising league in the Schroeder hotel.
"When business is good, a normal amount of advertising will do the work," Mr. Hodges said, "but when business is poor the amount of advertising must be increased."
To uphold this statement Mr.
Hodges cited figures indicating that the firms which increased their advertising the past year and a half reported increased sales, while those which decreased advertising lost sales.
"Last year many persons denied themselves things they wanted," Mr. Hodges said, "never have the savings deposits been so large. The far sighted business man can capture this great market by intelligent advertising."

BUILDING PROGRAM PROSPECTS BRIGHTEN

Madison—(P)—For the first time since the state board of control presented its building program to the legislature in 1925 prospects for action on the proposal are bright. Col.
John J. Hannan, president of the board, stated over radio station
WTMJ last night.
Under provisions of the budget bill now under consideration in the legislature, Col. Hannan pointed out, an increase of $12,000 in the amount provided for the operations of the institutions and services under the board of control is allowed.
"The board appreciates the generous attitude evidenced by the recommended appropriations for its activities under estimated revenues," the Colonel said. "I am confident that we can make a material advance. I am well within the possibilities of the next biennium and of the funds available to the board in assur-

INAUGURATION COST WISCONSIN $573.25

Madison—(P)—The Inauguration of Gov. Philip LaFollette and the other state officers early last month cost the state $573.25, according to the joint legislative committee on finance.
The committee has introduced a bill in the senate asking that this amount be appropriated from the general fund to pay the costs of the inauguration.
All blood-sucking insects are provided with stilettes, or lancets, with which tissues of their victims can be pierced.
ning of the program which we have outlined."
Col. Hannan stressed the importance of immediate action in advising members of the legislature to vote for the expansion and improvement in the social activities of the

UNITED STATES SHOULD BOAST ABOUT SIGHTS

So Says Congressman Who Seeks to Create Federal Travel Bureau

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Washington — Congressman Leonard C. Dyer of Missouri thinks it is about time the United States stopped being a shrinking violet among nations and stepped out to attract some tourist trade.

France, Germany, England, Italy, Spain, Japan and other countries spend lots of money to attract foreign tourists, Dyer says, and he has introduced a bill which would create in the Department of Commerce a Travel Division to study, promote, encourage and develop the travel of both foreigners and American citizens in the United States.

"Our people spent four billion dollars for travel last year," Dyer says, "three billion in this country and one billion abroad. We don't want to keep people away from foreign travel, but we want Americans to see America and foreigners to do likewise."

Would Attract Visitors
"There are about 125,000 roadside stands which do a business of half a billion dollars annually. How much more will this amount to when travel is properly encouraged as a business?"

"This legislation, if enacted into law, will enable the government to encourage other people and our own to see America. Our trade commissioners over the world will become travel commissioners, encouraging and advising foreigners who contemplate a trip to the United States. The travel bureau would try to eliminate useless complaints often made by touring foreigners and do everything possible to make them have a good time."

We ought, says Dyer, to boast about such matters as Pike's Peak, the unsurpassed grandeur and beauty of our national parks and the "unmatched scenery of our mountains, lakes, glaciers and rivers."

Many Things Worth Seeing
"Other things we have worth seeing," the congressman asserts, "is the summer capital at Black Hills, S. D., the Devil's Tower in Wyoming, the red woods of California, the Yosemite Valley, the movie studios in Hollywood, the ride across the desert into Arizona, the Hopi Indians, an Idaho sandstorm, the Columbia river valley in Oregon, the Raton Pass, Colorado Springs, the Garden of the Gods, the Ozarks, the Blue Ridge in Virginia, the Natural Bridge and the national capital, with its storehouse of knowledge and historical interest."

"From the Pacific to the Atlantic and from the Gulf of Mexico to Canada, every hour we can interest and benefit those who travel in the United States. Then there is New England. There is no better place to enjoy a real rest and vacation. Tourists there last year left $250,000,000. It ought to be at least a billion."

Tourist money, Dyer points out, doesn't all go into transportation and hotels. Those interests get a lot of it, but garages and accessories, for instance, get 11 1/2 per cent, confectionery and amusements 6 per cent and restaurants 8 1/2 per cent. But he thinks Congress ought to do something to help the hotels, of which there are 26,000 worth five billions and doing an annual business of about a billion and a half dollars.

"Instead of spending money for wars and preparing for wars, the government should use more to encourage the nationals of other countries to come and see us," Dyer says.

"Now is the time for the government and business to pull together and go after tourists. It would do much for our country and for prosperity."

SEEK TO MAP ACTION
IN RACINE DISPUTE

Racine —(P)— Testimony obtained from members of a special committee appointed by the county board to supervise purchases of materials for the new county court house at a discovery hearing before Court Commissioner G. E. Smalley was under consideration of attorneys here Tuesday. They seek to determine what action shall be taken. The discovery hearing was asked by Rohan and Rohan, a supply company representing H. J. Herzog.

It Is Said--

That college students sometimes carry things too far... and there is a certain photographer in town who wishes that some of these things would be carried back again. A college organization had photographs taken in a local studio recently, and evidently in a gesture of independence some of the members walked off with a miniature print from the studio walls and some leather picture portfolios. Pictures of several pretty girls also were missing.

That the five inches of snow which fell last Thursday helped considerably to relieve the minds of Outagamie county farmers. The heavy snow fell like particles of lead, and piled up uniformly without leaving fields dry and bare in spots. Sunday and Monday, when the snow started to thaw, cisterns and wells were partially replenished with water.

That when a man is under the influence of the "demon rum," his sense of humor sometimes becomes warped. A drunken driver, recently arrested by police, after his car had crashed into the rear end of another machine which was parked at the curb, yelled:

"How can I help it. That fool there wouldn't get out of my way."

That there is a barber in a W. College-ave barber shop answering to the name Harry Trimm. Perhaps the man didn't choose his name, but he had foresight enough to capitalize on his appellation when he chose his vocation.

FEWER INFLUENZA
DEATHS DURING 1930

Madison —(P)— Although the prevalence of influenza is increasing in Wisconsin at the present time, the state board of health reported Tuesday that deaths from the disease last year were only one-third those of 1929. There were 470 deaths in 1930 as compared with 1,251 in 1929.

The board said the disease at the present time has reached "epidemic proportions" in "many Eastern states," and is increasing in Wisconsin as shown by 148 cases reported in the state for the week ending Feb. 7 as compared to 111 cases the preceding week.

Timeless research in the field of medicine has as yet failed to produce any drug or combination of drugs that prevent or cure influenza, according to a recent statement by Dr. W. G. Campbell, chief of the federal food and drug administration. There is no medical authority, D. Campbell's statement reads, to indicate that aspirin, nasal sprays, throat gargles, cod liver oil, disinfectants, anodyne pills, tablets, or powders, milk of magnesia, and similar preparations, or fruits or other food products, have any power to check the course of flu, grippe, pneumonia and related diseases.

AIR EXPORTS INCREASE

Washington — Despite the business depression of 1930, exports of aircraft engines and replacement parts increased over 1929, according to the U. S. Department of Commerce. The total value of all aeronautic exports dropped off nearly $500,000, however, due largely to the drop in shipment of complete planes from 300 in 1929 to 260 in 1930.

PLEASANT RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Shoulders droop under weight of years. Young, yet beauty has fled. Cheeks are sallow and drawn. Unsightly pimples. Keep your system clean and you keep the beauty of youth. Its energy. Its irresistible charm. Then life is not a failure. Clogged bowels and inactive liver cause poisons to seep through the system. Health vanished and with it beauty and energy. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets will help you from this dark hour. For 20 years they have been prescribed in place of calomel to men and women seeking health and freedom from constipation. They act easily and smoothly. No dangerous griping. Take nightly before retiring. Results will amaze you.

BADGER CATTLE
HITS HIGH TOTAL

3,120,000 Head in State, Agricultural Statistician
Announces

Madison —(P)— Wisconsin's cattle population has reached the highest point in its history, an estimated, 3,120,000 head being on farms at the beginning of the year, Walter Ebling, agricultural statistician, announced today.

The state also has the greatest number of dairy cows in its history. According to estimates, there are 2,125,000 dairy cows and heifers more than two years old on Wisconsin farms, an increase of $2,000 head since a year ago and 70,000 above the previous high point which came in 1928.

Wisconsin's lead in the number of dairy cows extends to more than a half million head above the next ranking state, Mr. Ebling reported. Value of dairy cattle has declined with the general price decline of all farm products.

"In January dairy cows on farms averaged $64 per head in value as compared with $37 a year ago," Mr. Ebling said. "Accordingly, the farm values of the cows and heifers over two years old has declined from $193,171,000 in January, 1930 to $136,000,000 this year."

"With the decline in value of cattle the demand for export shipments has also let up. It is expected that as soon as improvement in general business conditions takes place the movement of Wisconsin cattle will also improve. The farm value of all cattle in Wisconsin this year is estimated at $163,648,000 as compared with $240,156,000 a year ago."

About 10 per cent of the milk supply of the United States is produced in Wisconsin. Mr. Ebling's statistics show. About half of the Wisconsin's income is from this source. During the past month milk prices averaged $1.40 per hundred pounds, the lowest figure for the month of January for any year since 1911. Milk prices during the first half of 1931 will be the lowest since the war, according to present indications Mr. Ebling said. The balance of the year should show an improvement, he said.

WORKMEN ACHIEVE SUCCESS RULING INDUSTRIAL CITY

Reading, Pa., Confident as It Begins Third Year Under Socialists

Reading, Pa. — This conservative industrial city of 111,000 population faces 1931 with a city government that is solidly Socialist and believes that because of that fact it will get better and cheaper government than it used to have.

Reading has had Socialist control in its city government for two years now. But last November it voted in two more Socialists to make it unanimous, and also sent two Socialists to the state legislature; and as 1931 gets under way Reading finds itself with the first all-workmen's city government in the United States.

Its mayor is J. Henry Stump, a former cigar maker. Its city councilmen, in addition to Mayor Stump, are James H. Maurer, an ex-plumber; William C. Hovetter, another cigar maker; George W. Snyder, a former piano tuner, and Jesse E. George, who used to be a steam-fitter. Stump, Snyder and Maurer were elected in the fall of 1927; Hovetter and George were put in to join them at the recent election.

Not a Radical Town

Yet Reading is not a radical town. On the contrary, it is as conservative an industrial community as there is in the United States. Its people are substantial Quakers, "Pennsylvania Dutch," with a sprinkling of South Europeans. There are even some direct descendants of William Penn.

But Reading is Socialist because, notwithstanding its good government while the Republicans and Democrats before them gave it bad government.

Really this city government dates back to 1910, even though it didn't take office until two years ago. It was in 1910 when a group of cigar makers, iron workers and other wage earners got together to fight for lower taxes. They organized a co-operative cigar factory, founded a Socialist local and bought a hall for their meetings.

Jim Maurer, one of the present councilmen, was soon elected to the legislature. He was a leader in the fight which brought about a state workmen's compensation law, and after 15 years of it, he and his associates here decided to let the legislature go and concentrate on city government.

Tax Basis Unpopular

The time was propitious. Reading's city administration had been installing plenty of city improvements, but taxes had been going up alarmingly. From 1917 to 1927 the city's per capita expenditures for the maintenance and operation of general city departments had risen from $9.36 to $13.31. Citizens were protesting.

The city government — at that time it was in the hands of Democrats — listened to their protests and shaved the taxes slightly. Then a reassessment was ordered on real estate — with the result that total assessments were boosted by $51,000,000, much of it spread out upon the home owners.

So the Socialists got together and made their campaign, demanding lower taxes and a more efficient government. They were victorious, too; they won the mayoralty election and two places on the council and since the city is ruled by the mayor and four councilmen, who joined with him to make a commission of five, the Socialists had a clear majority.

Property Is Reassessed

They were not long in getting busy. Once they took office they hired a tax expert to reappraise city property. This expert soon showed that home owners had been being discriminated against in favor of downtown property owners. A big store, for instance, had managed to get a reduction of nearly $5000 while assessments on homes were being increased. A leading hotel had enjoyed a reduction of nearly $2500 at the same time, a factory had profited similarly, a theater had done likewise.

So values were reassessed — with the result that 75 per cent of the city's home owners were given substantial tax reductions. Today the city tax rate is only $1.52 per $100, one of the lowest in the state.

Then there was the matter of a new city hall. The outgoing administration had voted $750,000 to build a new one, but work had not been started when the Socialists took office. They noticed that a big high school building in the center of the city had been vacated and was about to be torn down. That looked like sheer waste, so they bought the building for $140,000 and spent the remaining $340,000 to remodel it into a beautiful city hall. The school officials, meanwhile, took the $510,000 and built two new school houses on cheaper land. As a result, the city got three new buildings instead of one.

Elect to Legislature

All this proved highly pleasing to the voters; so last fall, when Hovetter and George went on the councilman ticket the voters elected them, making the city government solidly Socialist. At the same time the city elected two Socialists to the state legislature; Darlington Hooper, farmer and lawyer, and Mrs. Elsie Martin Wilson, a writer and lecturer.

Councilman Maurer has had an interesting career. He went to work at 13 as a machinist's apprentice, and did not learn to read until he was 16. He has visited Russia to study the Soviet system, and is president

Seeks Record Across United States

Juanita Burns, piloting a brand-new type of light and speedy plane recently invented and known as a "Cub," plans to hop off from Los Angeles in the immediate future to try to set a one-stop trans-continental speed record for light planes.

This picture shows her in the ship in which she will attempt to set a coast-to-coast record.

of the State Federation of Labor. Like Mayor Stump and Councilman Snyder, he is proud of the fact that he is of old "Pennsylvania Dutch" ancestry.

The next plan of the Socialists is to elect a congressman in 1932.

ROBOTS SHOPS?

London — If a model robot shop which has been developed here is proved practical along larger lines, department stores of the future will dispense with their clerks and sell their wares by automatic machines. The model contains all types of dispensing machines, worked much on the same order as cigar slot machines. A coin deposited in a machine will automatically deliver the desired article.

The robin is the most common bird in the United States, while the sparrow comes second.

BADGER MILITIA TO GET NEW BUILDINGS

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau
Washington — Wisconsin Militia will get $52,000 worth of buildings out of the national $1,000,000 national guard construction program, just authorized.

This fund will be used to build two militia warehouses, six kitchens and mess halls, and a bathhouse at Camp Williams, the state militia reservation at Camp Douglas.

Gen. Ralph Immell, adjutant general of Wisconsin, conferred with Militia Bureau officers here Friday on the Wisconsin projects.

MACDONALD AND BALDWIN APT TO FALL IN REVOLT

Chamberlain and Mosley Seen as Likely Successors in England

BY MILTON BRONNER
London—"Dropping the Pilot" is the title of a drama that sooner or later is going to be played by the Conservative and Socialist parties, two of the three big, militant political organizations of Great Britain.

In the case of the liberal party, Lloyd George is still handling things and it likely to as long as he desires to keep the post, despite the fact that he also has busy and bitter enemies within his party.

Stanley Baldwin, leader of the Conservatives, is marked for defeat. The younger element in his party complains he is a leader who does not lead.

In modern times, there has been no political leader, who has retained the master of his party, and yet had so many ups and downs as Baldwin.

Lost His Majority
When he became the Tory premier in 1923, upon the death of Bonar Law, the Conservatives had a majority of 79 in the House of Commons. He played the country into an election in 1923. Protection played a large part in it and his free trade country gave him a beating. He came back with the largest number of M. P.'s, but had lost his majority. A combine of Liberals and Socialists, gave the country its first Socialist Premier, J. Ramsay MacDonald.

MacDonald was tipped out in turn by a combine of the Tories and the Liberals. On the strength of a Soviet letter, presuming to interfere in England's internal affairs and for which the Socialists were blamed, the Tories rose to a smashing victory, coming back in October, 1924, with 211 majority. Baldwin once more became premier. He had absolute command of the Lords and the Commons, but his government was one of inertia.

Troubles Mount
Unemployment mounted. Taxes remained high. Business was depressed. Last May, the House of Commons expired by legal limitations and a new election was held. The Socialists got 237 seats in the Commons, the Tories 260 and the Liberals 59. Baldwin had once more frittered away a majority and MacDonald once more became premier. But, as under Baldwin, so under MacDonald unemployment has increased, business has become worse and taxes have gone higher.

Two press bosses, Lords Beaverbrook and Rothermere, have set out of force Empire Free Trade upon the Conservatives. They have also a deadly feud with Baldwin.

LIFE'S ODDITIES

By George Clark

"Hey, youse! Don't spell my name wid an 'e'."

They have hit at him with severity and he has punched back. But the press lords will never let up in their vendetta until Baldwin is out.

Chamberlain Favored
Baldwin's probable successor will be Neville Chamberlain as this will constitute one of the most remarkable chapters in recent British political history. In the last quarter of the 19th century there was no more conspicuous politician in England than Joseph Chamberlain, who started out in Parliament as a Liberal, left that part because of his belief in a modified form of protection, joined the Conservatives, and became one of their most militant leaders.

He had two sons who are both now prominent in the Tory party—Sir Austen Chamberlain and Neville Chamberlain. Austen was trained for political life; Neville for business.

It has been said of Joseph Chamberlain that he might have been premier if he had not been too eager of Austen that he might have been premier had he not been too loyal to Lloyd George, Neville making, agriculture, mining and ship building.

He only entered Parliament 12 years ago and since then he has been Postmaster General, Minister of Health two times, and Chancellor of the Exchequer. He went out of his office with Baldwin.

Recently when there was a rowdy-de-rowdy over the Tory party management, J. C. C. Davidson resigned as manager of the party machine and Baldwin promptly named Neville Chamberlain to succeed him. Now he is looked upon as who has filled many high cabinet posts with distinction.

Age Or Youth?

When and if Ramsay MacDonald is displaced as leader of the Socialist party, his successor is likely to be Sir Oswald Mosley, if the younger and more radical elements have their way. It will be a case of the veteran of 64 giving way to the recruit and convert of 33. The self-made man will give place to the young and wealthy aristocrat. The experience of ripe years will make way for the burning ardor of youth.

Mosley young, handsome, then heir to a baronetcy, did like most men of his class. He was educated as England's West Point. He went into the army and served throughout the great war. He entered Parliament as a Tory and remained six years. He made a brilliant marriage with the beautiful and wealthy Lady Cynthia Curzon, daughter of that last of the grandees—the Marquess Curzon. Then he deserted the Tories and became a Laborite. Like many converts, his faith was more burning than that of the oldsters.

Chamberlain, who went into politics late, may outstrip both his distinguished father and his equally distinguished half-brother.

Failed In Bahamas
While Austen was already prominent in Parliament, Neville went to the Bahamas and for several years tried to make a go of sisal plantations. When he finally gave that up as a bad job, he came back to his native Birmingham and went into business like his father before him.

In 1916, Lloyd George made him Director General of National Service, his task being to find men and women to carry on during the war the great key industries of munition

Dunking Versus Crumbling Starts Debate In South

Atlanta—(AP)—The Hon. Huey P. Long, L.L.D., governor and senator-elect of Louisiana, and the Atlanta Constitution, were engaged Tuesday in a battle of bristling language over whether cornpone should be dunked or crumbled in potlikker.

Long stands for dunking while the Constitution maintains that southern tradition requires crumbling. There have been two exchanges between these stalwart warriors with Long's final salvo scheduled for publication tomorrow.

And meanwhile such eminent authorities as Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York, adopted son of Georgia, and Senator-elect James Hamilton Lewis of Illinois, a former Georgian, have been called by the Constitution to join against Louisiana's fiery statesman.

For the benefit of the uninitiated, let it be explained that potlikker is not what the name might imply, but the essence of certain greens, such as turnip-tops, cabbage, spinach, beet-tops, and green beans, boiled and seasoned. Certain admirers have called the substance ambrosial, on which description Long and the Constitution do not differ, but how the cornpone should be contracted with the potlikker is something else again.

The argument started a few days ago when the Constitution in an editor's note questioned Long's statement that he had dunked cornpone in potlikker for the benefit of visiting bond-buyers. Yesterday

Long telegraphed the Constitution that he did not object to questioning "my political sagacity or legal capacity," but he would tolerate no aspersions on his potlikker recipe. The Constitution replied that his position was "untenable" and a here-sy "to stigmatize this fair section."

While Long's next salvo is awaited, Georgia's governor-elect, Richard B. Russell, Jr., is endeavoring to play the role of peacemaker. He said he personally crumbled his cornpone instead of dunking it, but "I think it is powerfully good either way."

"I breathed through nose for first time in 2 years when I tried KONDON'S Catarrh Jelly. A friend had catarrh so bad he had to sleep sitting up or he could not breathe. The first time he used KONDON'S enabled him to sleep lying down."—J. E. Illinois.

KONDON'S opens up nose, throat in 5 minutes. Ends phlegm, gagging, suffocation, bad breath, bad taste. Relieves catarrhal headache, deafness, head noises. Doctors have prescribed KONDON'S for 40 years because it cures catarrh so quick.

AVIATION STUDY NOW IS OFFERED IN 74 COLLEGES

Students Seeking Training Faster Than Industry Can Provide Jobs

New York—(AP)—American college students are seeking aviation training faster than the industry can find jobs for them.

A survey of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce reveals that there are 3,593 college students studying aviation this year, an increase of nearly one-third over last year's total of 2,406.

More than a third of the students, 1,419, are enrolled in four-year courses that lead to bachelors' or masters' degrees in aviation.

Enrollments Held Down
Colleges offering aviation courses also have increased from 61 last year to 74 this year. Fourteen of these have regular four-year aviation courses leading to degrees in aeronautical engineering or air transportation, and graduate courses as well. The figures were gathered for the Aircraft Year Book for 1931.

Many colleges are trying to keep enrollments in their aviation courses to a minimum. It has been found to avoid turning out large numbers of students who will be unable to find jobs after graduation.

And, the number of aviation instructors in the colleges is growing with the number of students. The survey shows there are 278 teachers of aviation subjects on college faculties, of whom 83 are on full time. A year ago there were 199, with 49 on full time.

Ground Schools, Too
Along with technical training in aviation, more than a dozen colleges have ground schools to prepare students to learn to handle planes at commercial flying schools.

Several have arrangements with nearby flying schools to teach students to fly. There are more than a score of college flying and glider clubs.

Many private commercial schools that taught aviation mechanics, the survey revealed, have ceased to operate because public schools offer the same training. There are 500 elementary, secondary, trade and continuation schools providing aeronautical work of some kind.

Tinted Glass Becoming Popular In Table Service Of American Home

Tinted glass has found a definite place in the table service of the American home. Breakfasts still boast gayly painted china. Luncheon is smart in modernistic black glass, and dinner becomes a thing of beauty with a table set with a complete glass service.

That the trend is toward colored glass for general use, whether in formal or informal, is evidenced in displays of leading china departments in Appleton.

A modernistic touch is seen in the square plates shown in dinner plate, luncheon, salad, and bread and butter plates. The square design is relieved by cut-out corners. Sherbet and water tumblers carry out this same design in a heavy square base. Center flower bowls and candle sticks match the same dinner pattern in glass. Even the cups and saucers are of glass, etched or plain to match the dinner service.

Many of the clear glass water tumblers and food tea sets have black bases. One attractive tea set for afternoon use combines black and red. The water tumblers are low, with black stems and squarely footed. Small red rings are painted around the rim of the glasses. The water pitcher carries out the same colors in a band of red around the pitcher top and black handle.

Topaz is the newest tint in dinner sets, showing promise of becoming more popular than the former green created originally by Baron Stiegel in colonial times. Among the other colors which grace a table in its completeness is a transparent blue and the deeper blue of turquoise. Fuchsia is the name of the glassware that reflects the warm deep wine color of grapes.

The square bases on tumblers, sherbet glasses and candlestick holders are reminiscent of Colonial days as well as being modernistic. The bowl shapes of the glasses tend to be squat or long with a short stem, after the fashion in historical glassware.

The old hereditary and supposedly "best taste" form of crystal white glassware is fast losing ground. A "best taste" form of crystal white often beautified by delicate etching and is still in excellent taste, but no more so than the delicate tinted glass service, which no longer serves merely an ultra-modern purpose in the home.

Dr. O'Keefe, Dentist, Ins. Bldg.

New patterns in table glassware reflect the square bases and short stems that were popular in colonial days. These pieces show both the round and square foot styles that are finding favor.

HAWAII TURNING TO "MOUNTAIN CHICKENS"

Montgomery, Ala.—(AP)—Here in Alabama they are just bullfrogs, but out in Hawaii they are ranked as livestock.

The Alabama agricultural department reports that the Honolulu market alone handled 8,000 pairs of frog legs in one recent week at 20 cents a pair, and several frog-raising organizations have been formed. The frogs were imported into Hawaii from Alabama and Louisiana to feed on certain insect pests, but have proved a profitable source of revenue to Hawaii frog raisers who call them "mountain chicken."

U. S. LEADS WORLD IN TRANSPORT LINES

Length of Routes Exceeds
That of All Other Countries

Washington—(AP)—Progress of commercial flying in the world is shown by the aeronautics trade division of the department of commerce in a survey of miles of airways in operation during 1930.

The United States led the world with 49,425 miles of airways covered by scheduled air services. Routes totaled 72,084 miles in all of Europe, 3,769 miles in Africa, and 9,458 miles in Australia.

network of routes within her own boundaries, and with the entire mileage of her lines confined to Europe.

For total services operated at home and abroad, France had the greatest system, 18,542 miles, including 6,917 miles in South America connecting to home airlines by a route down the west coast of Africa and steamer transportation to Natal, Brazil.

The Netherlands boasted the longest single line in the world, running from Amsterdam to Java, 9,105 miles, the division reported.

Great Britain's regular air routes, with a single exception, were international in scope, while Italy's operations were distinctive in being carried on almost wholly by sea planes.

While night-flying operations were most extensive in the United States, plans are being made to extend this type of service in Europe during 1931.

SHIOCTON 2-DAY FARM PROGRAM IS COMPLETED

Several Prominent Speakers Secured for Weekend Institute

Special to Post-Crescent
Shiocton—The program has been completed for the Farmer's Institute and Home Economics meetings to be held the two days of the Shiocton Community fair, on Feb. 20 and 21. Prof. George M. Briggs, associate professor of agronomy at the University of Wisconsin, will discuss better farming. Prof. F. L. Musbach, director of the Marshfield Experiment station, speaks on his work on soils, very similar to the soil types in this vicinity. Mr. Musbach spent some time last summer in the Shiocton territory studying the methods and results of fertilizer practice among the farmers and continued his interest in the methods used through correspondence with W. D. Brownson, agriculture teacher at Shiocton. J. M. Kavanaugh, Brown-co agricultural agent, for the All Community program to be held Friday evening. Mr. Kavanaugh is known all over Wisconsin for his Irish humor and "Fiddlin' Around."

The following tentative program for the Farmer's Institute has been arranged by Mr. Brownson and Gus Sell, county agent.

Chairman—Leslie Helsner, president Shiocton chapter Future Farmers of America.

Soil testing demonstration: Troug Acidity test for soil—Leland Peep, and testing for Available Phosphates—Vincent Henry.

Fertilizer Problems and Practices for Permanent Agriculture—Prof. F. L. Musbach.

Control Crop Pests (Save What We Grow), a demonstration by John Kelly, Eldor Seehauer and Donald Nelson.

Controlling Cabbage Maggots—Dale Van Straten.
Growing Smoother Potatoes—Wayne Kennedy, Carl Laedke.

Saturday at 10:30 a. m.
Chairman, Gustave A. Sell, county agricultural agent.

What Fertilizers do We Want, and What do We Need?—Prof. Musbach.

New Things in Farm Crops—Prof. G. M. Briggs, college of agriculture.
Demonstration—Treating Seed

Grains to Control Disease—Clark Van Straten, Russell Johnson.
Saturday at 1:30 P. M.
Chairman, Gustave A. Sell, county agricultural agent.
Controlling Quack Grass—Prof. G. M. Briggs.

The Dairy Situation and What Can We Do?—Gustave A. Sell.
Soil Testing Clinic

Following the demonstration on Friday on testing of soils, the two members of the team will test samples of soils brought in by the farmers. This will consist of a test for liming needs, and for the amount of available phosphates in the soil. The work will be supplemented by the suggestions given by Prof. Musbach, and by the county agricultural agent. This testing equipment is now a part of the regular equipment of the Shiocton Agricultural department, and farmers desiring soils service can get it at any time.

Farmers Judging Contest
Two judging contests are open to all visitors and exhibitors at the Shiocton Community fair and institute—a corn judging contest and a poultry judging contest.

In the corn contest, all entrants will judge and place three samples of the Wisconsin Pedigree Golden Glow corn, and three samples of Wisconsin Pedigree No. 25 corn. A contest of this kind brushes up on observation and establishes a definite idea of type for good grains and corn. The samples of corn to be judged are secured from neighboring agricultural departments so that the boys of the Shiocton high school do not know the corn, from having previously worked on the samples. A prize of a year's membership in the Wisconsin Experiment association will be given the winning contestant by the Experiment station.

Second premium in the corn contest is five pounds of registered pedigree seed corn of any standard Wisconsin varieties.

In the Poultry Judging contest, three pens of White Leghorn chickens, three pens of White Plymouth Rock chickens and three, ten egg, samples of eggs must be placed.

Considerable interest has been shown in poultry in the Shiocton territory, and the judging should be interesting.

The Poultry Tribune company is offering a year's subscription to the Poultry Tribune as first premium, and the Furina Breads Co. is offering a checkerboard jackknife as the second premium.

Women's Institute
The women of Shiocton community will hold an institute on Friday afternoon and on Saturday, at the Union high school. Friday afternoon's program will be in charge of Miss Marjorie Johnson, home econ-

Observe Anniversaries With Series Of Socials

BY DOROTHEA J. LEWIS

Post-Crescent's Wash. Society Editor Washington—What a week, oh, what a week this last one was in Washington! Three very splendid days in succession—Lincoln's birthday, a Friday the 13th and St. Valentine's Day, are too much for anyone week. Then there was President and Mrs. Hoover's thirty-second wedding anniversary Tuesday.

There was the colorful White House reception for the Army and Navy Wednesday evening, always second only to the Diplomatic reception in interest and picturesqueness. Wisconsin was certainly well represented at this affair by a distinguished group including the Chief of Staff, General Douglas MacArthur, formerly of Wisconsin; General Samuel Hof of Boscomb, Chief of Ordnance; and Lieutenant Hamilton Young of Milwaukee, one of the White House Military Aides, who labor at every reception introducing the guests to the President and Mrs. Hoover. Very few states could claim three such splendid representatives.

The scarlet coats of the Marine Band Orchestra made it seem almost a Valentine's Day Party.

Then, Thursday, there was the noon breakfast for Mrs. Hoover, given by the Congressional Club. It is perhaps the most special, special entertainment on the Club's program and this year's breakfast was delightful.

Among the Wisconsin members present were Mrs. James A. Frear, omies teacher of the Shiocton school.

The following program will be given, beginning at 2 o'clock P. M. in the high school assembly room.

Kitchen Cabinet band—junior and senior students in home economics, Dairy Products and Their Variations—Miss Johnson, teacher of home economics.

Saturday's program is in charge of Miss Harriet Thompson. Miss Thompson is securing an extension worker from the State staff to assist her in putting on a full day's program.

Mrs. John C. Schafer and Mrs. Edward E. Browne.

The very best party of last week was the annual "gridiron-like" dinner of the Women's National Press Club which, with skits and songs and cleverness, toasted the great and near great to a turn.

Guests of honor included Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth, Mrs. "Dolly" Gann, Mrs. Charles Evans Hughes, Amelia Earhart, the aviator—just two days after her marriage to George Palmer Putnam—and most of the women in Congress, Mrs. Henry L. Stimson and other wives of Cabinet ministers. To settle the difficult question of precedence, particularly concerning "Alice" and "Dolly," they, with Mrs. Hughes, were seated about the outer rim of a crescent-shaped table while Miss Ruth Jones, president of the club, faced them from the inner rim.

Wisconsin again was represented—it always seems to be when there is something exciting going on.

Miss Ruby A. Black, correspondent for a number of Wisconsin papers and formerly a member of the University of Wisconsin Journalism faculty and of the Wisconsin State Journal staff, entertained Miss Muna Lee, poet and feminist, who is on a year's leave of absence from the University of Porto Rico. Each table and there were many of them, had an honor guest.

The honor guest at Miss Black's table was Rep. Ruth Baker Pratt of New York City.

Miss Ruth Finney, wife of Robert Allen, former Wisconsin newspaper man, also entertained at the dinner. Her guest included her mother; Mrs. Ludwell Denny, Mrs. Bertha Mellett, novelist and wife of the editor of the Washington Daily News; and Mrs. Emma Rae Stephenson and her sister.

Miss Black and Miss Finney appeared in one of the best stunts of the evening, a satire on politics and politicians. Miss Black appeared as "The Common People," while Miss Finney portrayed a business man and a conservationist. All participants in this stunt were newspaper women who report the doings "up on the hill" from the press galleries of the House of Representatives and the Senate and Miss Finney was the author of the stunt.

Senator and Mrs. Robert M. La Follette, Jr., of Madison attended the last of the 1930-31 series of cotillions given by the Washington Bachelors, Monday. It was the most elaborate affair given by the Bachelors since the club was formed three years ago, and the young LaFollettes had a lovely evening.

Sen. and Mrs. John J. Blaine of Boscomb were guests at a dinner given by Miss Maud Younger on Feb. 7, in honor of Will Irwin, perhaps most famous for his biography of Hoover and his wife, Mrs. Inez Maynes Irwin, novelist and short story writer.

Miss Janet Esch, niece of John J. Esch, formerly of La Crosse, will have about three more months of world traveling—she is now in Java, certainly one of the most romantic-sounding spots on the globe. On her return to this country, she will spend some time in Los Angeles with her grandmother.

Dr. and Mrs. Deles O. Kinsman, formerly of Appleton, were guests of honor Wednesday at a dinner given by the Business and Professional Women's section of the Women City Club. After the dinner, Dr. Kinsman spoke on his trip to Soviet Russia.

Mrs. John M. Nelson, wife of Rep. Nelson of Madison, is much interested in the work of the Gospel Mission here in aiding the unemployed and she is doing all she can to help. The Mission is now attempting to collect bedding and blankets and Mrs. Nelson is aiding in the work of sewing and mending sheets and pillows. The 250 beds of the Mission are filled with unemployed and 60 are, at present, occupying benches.

Mrs. Lloyd Berkner, wife of the Milwaukee man who went to Little America with Byrd as a radio expert, was a guest at a bridge luncheon given by her sister, Miss Blanche at the Shoreham Hotel.

Mrs. Frank Barley, the former Evelyn Esch of Sparta, was one of the guests at a bridge party given in honor of Miss Ruth Newborn a sorority sister in Pi Beta Phi, who is soon to be married.

PICK FOUR NUMBERS FOR LYCEUM COURSE
Four numbers already have been chosen for next year's lyceum course at Appleton high school. They have been obtained through the extension division of the University of Wisconsin.

Performers who have been booked for next year include Eugene Laurant and his company, who will present artistic magic; four Filipino college students who will give a program of instrumental music as the Filipino Varsity Four; Al Priddy, internationally known as "The Illuminator of the Big Tops," novelty duo, with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wells in dialect stories and musical sketches.

Loring Campbell, noted magician, appeared before the students in the Thursday assembly this week. The next Lyceum course number, Wednesday, Feb. 25, will be given by George Morlarity, noted baseball player and umpire.

CRAVES COMPANY
HUSBAND: Yes, that's what they say—money talks.

Lawrence College Cagers Ousted From Big Four Race By Beloit

GOLD QUINTET BEATS VIKINGS BY 27-24 COUNT

Strain of Carroll and Marquette Games Shown in Play Last Night

BELoit—A group of tired Lawrence basketball players lost an overtime game to Beloit here tonight, 27 to 24. After a slow first half the game was a thriller all through the last period, and the Vikings held a one point lead less than three minutes to play. At this point however, Haase fouled Taylor and the Beloit forward converted to sew up the score, at 24 all. In an overtime period Taylor again got loose to count a basket. Laird made a free throw, but Taylor also dropped one from the charity lane to retain Beloit's two point advantage. The Gold team went into a stalling game and Kaufmann, Beloit's star, snared a long basket to sew up the game. Biggers free throw ended the scoring.

In the first half Coach A. C. Denney's men showed the results of two hard games with Carroll and Marquette over the weekend. Beloit took advantage of the Vikings' listless play and jumped into a 12 to 4 lead. Baskets by Laird, Biggers and Fischl brought the score to 14 to 4 at the half ended.

With the opening of the second half the Vikings took a new lease on life and in a short time had tied the count at 16 all. They forged into the lead with nine minutes left to play on Biggers' basket. But in short order, Beloit had evened the count on free throws by Stipe and Heiss. These two again cooperated on a basket of six to throw to hand the Gold a 21 to 18 lead.

Biggers was fouled on a fast dribble into the basket and he made both free throws after which Haase followed a long shot to place the lead back into Lawrence keeping. The one point lead looked good until Heiss was fouled and tied the score with 20 seconds left to play. Biggers resorted to her usual tactics of fouling before allowing a shot. Biggers and Laird were fouled on practically every attempted shot, most of which were under the basket tries which if made would have placed a different angle to the score. Captain Hayward Biggers led the Lawrence scoring with four goals from the field and six free throws, while Laird sunk one basket and a quartet of gift shots. Taylor was Beloit star with 10 points to his credit.

The Lawrence defeat shows the team back into second place in the conference, and once again places Carroll undisputed on top of the heap. The game did not count in the Midwest conference.

ART THURNBLAD PLANS BILLIARD EXHIBITION

Chicago—(P)—Arthur Thurnblad will attempt to prove that his triumph in the recent world's three-cushion billiard championship tournament was not a fluke.

The rancy Chicago Swede, who beat a field of champions to win the 1931 title, is booking an exhibition tour to prove him a matinee.

"My challenge is open to Willie Hoppe, Welker Cochrane and any others who didn't compete in the recent tournament, as well as to those who did," he said. "According to the rules of National Billiard association, my title cannot be risked for one year, but I'll play for vindication and wages—to show 'em I'm the champ."

Six Million Golfers in United States

Chicago—(P)—The golfing army of the United States will be swelled by at least one million more golfers this year, Gordon Beckley, Chicago club manufacturer, estimated today.

"Miniature golf courses, which grew up like mushrooms last summer, are largely responsible for the large number of recruits," Beckley said, "although the sensational record established in 1930 by Bobby Jones has stirred the imagination of many."

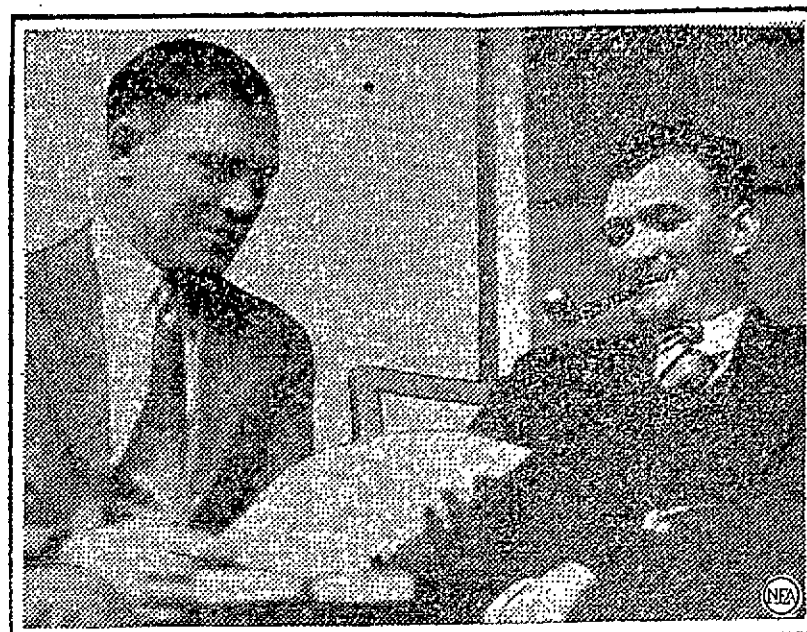

He estimated that 6,000,000 already are playing golf in the United States.

PEABODY WINS SECOND AMATEUR CUE MATCH

Madison—(P)—Winning his second match by defeating Jerry Worth, Oak Park, 250 to 151 in 25 innings, James Peabody, Illinois Athletic club, Chicago, yesterday continued to lead the field seeking his crown in the western amateur 182 ball line billiard tournament here.

Following away with runs of 30 or more, Peabody took the lead after 109 points had been played. He had a high run of 31. Worth, who lost his second game, had a high run of 24.

Quinn Tells How He Did It

WITH the signing of the ancient Jack (John Picus) Quinn, left above, to a Brooklyn contract, all three of the veterans released this winter by the Athletics have caught on with other major league teams. Catcher Ralph Perkins previously had signed a New York Yankee contract while Catcher Wally Schang was signed by Detroit. In this picture of Quinn and Joe Boley, shortstop of the world champion Athletics, old Jack may be saying, "This letter from Boley is assurance that I'll be pitching my spit ball against you fellows in the world series of 1931." And may be an appropriate answer from Boley would be "Yes—and I'm for that too, Jack, old boy!"

Art Shires Entertains As Miller Cords Wallop Milwaukee Pro Team 33-18

"Great One" Shows Himself a Likeable Chap Who Is Born Actor

BY GORDON R. MCINTIRE
SAY what you will, boo him all you like Arthur "The Great" Shires is just a big, good natured, kid, entertaining as the dickens and harmless as a pup, if we are to judge him by what we saw and heard last night when the Milwaukee Badgers plus the "Great One" performed at armory G against the Miller Cords in a pro cage game.

The Cords won by a score of 33 and 18, or something like that, and from the standpoint of basketball it wasn't much of an encounter. But Arthur is a born actor, knows his mob psychology and satisfies the folks with a few clever jabs, some real honest to goodness "T" stuff and what more can one ask.

To go into a discussion of the basketball game is almost beside the question. The folks came out to see Art Shires put on his little act and they weren't disappointed, not in the least, and no doubt a great many will buy tickets to Milwaukee ball games next spring and summer just to see if the "Great One" is as good a ball player as he's really cracked up to be.

Shires never made a pretext at being a basketball player and you can see he isn't the minute he steps onto the floor strutting like a southern gentleman going to a big hop with his best high brown baby. When Art tosses the ball for the hoop he uses more right hand on the ball than if he were throwing it to second base and the leather is apt to come down anywhere between Hoboken and San Francisco. As a matter of fact Art can hardly make a basket when he stands by it under the hoop.

But who cares? When Art entered

YOU'RE LUCKY
There were times last night when the Great Shires was stuck for an answer to someone's wise crack and the Art called on his rubber stamp:
"You're lucky you can come out and see a great fellow like me." or—
"I know how you feel; I felt the same way when I first met Lindbergh."

the armory last evening accompanied by Betty, his wife, he was no different than anyone else. But when Art stepped onto the floor to entertain for the evening, well, that was something else again.

He swaggered forth amid a few boos, a little handclapping and of course some gasps of awe. That Art was entertaining for the crowd was very obvious. He was so amused at his own antics he wore a smile that indicated he probably thought "I may look like whatever kind of a fool you want to call me but I'm having a good time and making a few nickels, and what else matters."

During the time the boys warmed up Arthur went through a warming up exercise with the fans carrying on a continual conversation. Then

MINOR CHANGES NOTED AT STATE PIN MEET

Milwaukee—(P)—Cracking 671 in the team event, 594 in the doubles, and 654 in the singles, Allie Rogahn, Jr., Milwaukee, today stood in second place for the all events division at the Wisconsin state bowling tournament with a total of 1,919. F. Griebner, Milwaukee, rolled games of 246, 254, and 191 for a total of 591, good for third place in the singles standings.

GREEN BAY GETS "Y" STATE CAGE TOURNEY

Green Bay—(P)—Franklin Brown, Milwaukee state physical secretary of the Y.M.C.A., has announced Green Bay as host for the second consecutive year to the state "Y" basketball tournament. The divisional winners will compete for the state crown here March 27 and 28.

LIMIT TICKETS FOR HIGH SCHOOL GAMES

Only 400 Tickets Will Be Available to General Public in Future

Because Appleton high school basketball team has been drawing crowds almost unheard of at Armory G, because the old armory can't stand the strain, because of the fire hazard, and the safety hazard as far as the balcony is concerned, a limit on the number of tickets for sale at future home games has been set by high school authorities.

Hereafter only 400 adult tickets will be for sale to the general public and after the limit has been reached the doors will be closed to anyone wishing to see the game.

Twice in the last few weeks the armory has been taxed to capacity, or maybe over capacity, with fans. The Neenah game was considered the high point of the year, but when the mob tried to storm the gates at the Oshkosh game members of the fire department sized up the situation and called quits along about the time 1,400 persons had arrived.

To the credit of the high school authorities it must be said they tried to stop selling tickets by telling patrons there was no more seating room. The folks then said they'd like to stand and stand they were permitted to do until there wasn't even breathing room left. Hence the ban.

Friday evening the high school quintet will play the Manitowish high school team at the armory. Two games are scheduled, the first to begin at 7 o'clock.

Toronto—Sammy Bruce, Buffalo, outpointed Billy Hoon, Detroit, (8) Ray Rollison, Buffalo, outpointed Pee Wee Wilson, Detroit (8).

BEAR STORIES COME IN HANDY AS IRISH MENTOR WILL PROVE

South Bend, Ind.—(P)—Johnny Nicholson, Notre Dame track coach, at last realizes the value of "bear stories" in college athletics.

It seems that Coach Nicholson became so enthusiastic with his 1931 team that he couldn't help but warn some of his rival coaches as far back as last summer. Result: Notre Dame has had a tough time arranging track dates for this spring, and many still remain open.

"It takes a lot of coaches a long time to learn that they shouldn't brag about their teams," said the shrewd Knute Rockne. "The first thing a coach must learn is to spin some bear stories. If you let your opponents know you're going to be good, they'll get out of your way."

The Irish track team, coached by Coach Nicholson as one of the greatest in the country, will meet Illinois at Champaign Saturday.

CHARLES METRIE WOULD SELL MAIER'S CONTRACT

Milwaukee—(P)—Davie Maier, Milwaukee boxer, today was on the auction block so far as his manager Charlie Metrie was concerned.

Involved for some weeks in a difficulty over a contract, the manager and boxer took their argument to the state boxing commission. The commission ruled Metrie's contract to manage Maier valid—and the contract has more than three years to run. Metrie said at the conclusion of the hearing he was more than willing to relinquish the contract, if he could find a buyer at his figure.

Chaff 'n Chatter

Chances for Cheaters

UMPIRES in the major leagues this year will receive instructions to keep balls in play unless they are married seriously. With the new raised seam, heavier thread ball to be used, this may give the cheaters a break.

The habit of doctoring balls was curbed heretofore partly by the indiscriminate removal from the game of baseballs that showed even the slightest imperfections. Then, too, it has been hard for pitchers to cheat with the ball that had seams countersunk, because many trick deliveries of an earlier day were based upon raising of the seam at some point, and this was hard to do with the threads countersunk.

Ford Father of Fakers

The great granddaddy of all the cheaters was Russell Ford of the Yankees, in the days before the World War. Ford used a glove with a hole cut in the center. He wore a ring to which was attached a bit of empty paper, which he used to roughen a spot on the ball. Fastened to the ring was a string of rubber bands which extended up the sleeve of his sweatshirt. When an umpire would demand inspection of his gloved hand, Ford would remove the ring as he took off his glove, and the rubber bands would snap the evidence right up his sleeve. Ford, literally, had "some thing up his sleeve" in every game he worked.

The roughened spot on the ball gave it an unnatural break. If the ball was delivered overhand with the roughened spot to the left, it would break sharply to the right. If the spot was held on top, the ball would break down. Ford achieved a "rise ball" by holding the spot on the bottom as he gripped it to deliver. If the spot was held to the right, the ball would sail sharply to the left as it neared the batter.

Ed Passes It On

Ford was wary of his secret and used it moderately. He was content to get by with it without any spectacular demonstration. Ed Sweeney, the catcher, was the only other man who knew what it was all about.

After Ford passed on the big league with a lame arm, Sweeney confided the secret to Ray Keating. Keating, however, became too bold with the delivery. He didn't care who he fooled with the crazy breaks, and used it with abandon.

It was when Keating struck out Eddie Collins three times, in succession that an investigation was begun that led to the outlawing of such tricks. After Eddie had whiffed twice he walked up to the plate for the third time, leaned on his bat as though it were a cane and watched three of the silly twisters sail across the heart of the plate.

Caught Red-Handed

Keating hadn't bothered to take the precaution Ford had used, and after he had pitched the second strike across on the laconical Collins, the umpire rushed out to inspect his glove. Keating couldn't get rid of the emery in his glove in time to avoid discovery.

Dave Danforth, another of the tricksters, had a thumbnail like a saw with which he raised the seam of the ball. Sometimes pitchers used safety razor blades to lift the seam, but Dave's thumb was like a knife and he had tremendous strength in his hands.

CUBS BEGIN TRAINING AT CATALINA ISLAND

Avalon, Calif.—(P)—Rogers Hornsby's management of the Chicago Cubs started formally and informally today as he cracked the whip in the first spring practice of the 1931 campaign.

One workout daily, starting at 11 o'clock, and lasting "until"—was the Rajah's training plan. He has arranged for soccer games during each training session, to strengthen the legs and aid the wind.

The advance guard of the Cubs—the battermen and the few rookies who couldn't wait for the second squad of infielders and outfielders—landed on William Wrigley's magic island yesterday. Manager Hornsby gave them the afternoon to get located and to play golf—then ordered all hands on deck for today's initial workout.

A weight chart may be used to determine the condition of the players. If the plan goes into effect, each player will be asked to weigh in before and after workouts daily.

BILL TILDEN SHOWS IN PRO TENNIS GAME

New York—(P)—William Tatem Tilden 2nd for more than a decade a dominant figure in international amateur tennis, makes his professional debut against the crack Czech, Karel Kozeluh, in Madison Square Garden tonight.

Under the promotion of Jack Curley, wrestling impresario extraordinary, Tilden and Kozeluh will clash in a five-set singles match as the headline attraction of a program in which Tilden's "Fidus" Achates, Francis T. Hunter, and the young Chicagoan, Emmett Parc, also will participate.

Tilden and Kozeluh have clashed only once before. A few years ago in Paris, Tilden, then a member of Davis cup team, took the Czech's measure in an informal exhibition match.

CIGARS 29 GUARDS 15
The United Cigar and the C. D. team, both from the Industrial league, played in the preliminary game, the Cigars winning easily, 29 and 15. The Smokes took an early lead and were out in front 15 and 7 at half time. They continued their basket toting in the second half and romped to a win.

Gentlemen:
What is wrong with the word "Spit"? We have been spitting for years and will probably continue to spit for many years to come. It is the uncontrollable or indiscriminate spitting that does the harm, as it contains so many communicable germs.
Any type of campaign or advertising against the use of human sputum is endorsed by this Department, because it protects public health.

Very truly yours,

BETAS, SPECIALS, DELTS WINNERS AT BOYS' TOURNAMENT

Vocals and Sophs, Wolverines and Thetas Will Play in Saturday Games

BETA HI-Y basketball team, Sam Orstein's Specials and the Middlets won games in last night's play in the Oiler Boy league sponsored by the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. The games were part of a double elimination tournament the boys have been holding since league play was completed a few days ago.

The first game of the evening was won by a respectable baseball score, 3 and 2. The Betas were the winners and the Bears the losers. Dean had a field goal and Krohn a free throw for the Betas' efforts while Cahill's field goal was all the scoring for the Bears. Close guarding featured the game, and the two field goals were long drives.

Holding the Ghosts to five points in the first half and seven in the second, the Specials had little trouble winning 17 and 12. During the third quarter the Specials loafed along for a while but pulled out when they received a scare from the Ghosts in the form of a spurt that brought the count 12 and 11 for the Specials. Ebert was high scorer for the S. O. S. team with seven points and Kruse had six for the Ghosts.

The Middlets again showed they can beat the Delta Hi-Y team, on occasion by winning by a 12 to 9 score. The Biggets counted five points in the first half compared to four for the Deltas. In the second half the little fellows improved on their score with seven points and the Deltas counted five.

Saturday afternoon play will again be resumed with the Vocals and Sophs showing at 1:30 and the Wolverines and Thetas at 2:15.

CHICAGO — (CPA) — Walter Meanwell of Wisconsin and Forrest Allen of Kansas are building up a dynasty of basketball coaches somewhat comparable to that of Knute Rockne and Pop Warner in football. The two doctors—Meanwell and Allen—are among the foremost basketball coaches of the country and have won innumerable championships in their respective sectors. They have done much to aid in the development of the fast winter sport and their graduates not only are in demand as coaches but also eminently successful.

This winter three of "Phog" Allen's disciples are setting a fast

Red threw his arm out and that sore arm sent him to the Western League and caused him to take up the spitball.... "It is the spitball that has kept me in the big leagues," says Red.... After the close of the 1912 season, the former White Sox star, Isbell, needed money badly and appealed to Charles A. Comiskey to buy Faber.... Finally Comiskey bought Faber to help out Isbell, who had Faber under him at Pueblo and Wichita.... (Pants Rowland, then at Dubuque, and Edward G. Answer—O'Brien left end; Two-mey left tackle, Cannon left guard; Moynihan center; Metzger right guard; McMannan right tackle; Vik right end; Carideo quarter; Brill left half; Elder right half; Savoldi fullback.

Question—What is the best way in which to protect your arm after pitching a game?

PENNOCK, ALLEN SIGN THEIR 1931 CONTRACTS

New York — (P)—The New York Yankees' hold-out list has dwindled to two—Lyn Lary, shortstop, and Sam Byrd, outfielder.

Latest to come to terms are Herb Pennock and Johnny Allen, pitchers. Pennock, the smart southpaw, has been in the major leagues since 1912, but still can fool opposing batters consistently. He will be 37 years old tomorrow.

Allen is a rookie right-hander obtained by the Yankees from Jersey City of the International league.

He is an amateur boxer and never misses a big fight, if he is anywhere around.

Some persons have said they believed his extreme modesty was a pose but those closest to him say it is a continual source of surprise that anyone should want to make a fuss over him.

The British captain has a genius for friendship and will not allow ill to be spoken in his presence even of those unfriendly toward him.

He has a score of gold and silver cigarette cases presented to him by dignitaries and the famous of three continents.

Although he dislikes all fuss and ostentation he submits graciously to all requests for interviews and pictures. He endeared himself to the reporters, cameramen and public at Daytona Beach during his recent trials there by his unfailing good humor under the most trying conditions. He has never refused a request for his autograph.

His favorite pastime is sitting around with a group of friends. He knows as many Scotch jokes as Harry Lauder, and can tell them delightfully.

He counts that day lost, when home, that he does not walk several miles over the English countryside, with his dogs and his family.

He is 46, looks 30, married, father of two children. He thinks he may be driving racing cars until he is 70.

He loves America, he says, and feels very deeply the responsibility to make a good impression on the American public.

He finances his own speed tests and in the last six years has spent approximately $500,000 on his racing cars.

He has been called "Great Britain's most popular sportsman." He likes that title.

THE CRIME IN THE DUTCH GARDEN

SYNOPSIS: That Dr. Netherton or Marjorie Blake killed the girl's aunt, Annabelle Querding, is the conviction of the police superintendent, Richmond. Also he blames them for the disappearance of the spinster's will disinheriting Marjorie in the event of marriage. Jimmie Haswell, amateur detective, points out, however, that the case collapses if either is in love with someone else and also that Miss Querding's prohibition of marriage applies equally to the other niece, Evelyn Blake, engaged to Lionel Duckworth, Vincent Blake, an estranged nephew, who has been nearby on the fatal night, is also suspected. As Jimmie weighs the significance of telephoning between Marjorie and Netherton, Audrey Winford tells him confidentially that she is engaged to Netherton, whose love for Marjorie she denies.

A BROKEN ENGAGEMENT

THE news did not come altogether as a surprise. Jimmie had noticed that, when the coroner was pressing the young doctor as to his feelings for the murdered woman's niece, Audrey, by slight involuntary signs had displayed more than ordinary interest. Netherton did love--he was engaged to marry--Audrey, not Marjorie. Therefore he gained nothing by the death of Annabelle Querding.

Jimmie congratulated Audrey, who explained that their reason for keeping their engagement secret was that they did not wish Mrs. Netherton to feel that she was adding to Bill's financial burden by living with him and thereby delaying his marriage. "It will take longer to pay the debt, and that is the big thing we are working and hoping for."

Jimmie did not immediately reply. The girl's quiet words carried conviction that she loved Bill Netherton and that she knew Bill loved her.

"I am glad to know," he said. "I will do all I can to help you. Had Marjorie, to your knowledge, an attachment?"

Audrey hesitated. "I do not think so. She has always been popular and has had many friends. If Bill was an old sweetheart, that was also true of other boys around here."

"I understand. Could you not find out from Bill if there was any particular reason for his meeting Marjorie as he did? It is for his own sake. Both Bill and Marjorie seem to be holding something back, but if it could be shown that Bill loved you, it would clear things considerably."

Jimmie could see, however, that for the doctor suddenly to announce his engagement to another girl might suggest that he saw his danger and took the step to save himself. There was silence for a few moments, broken finally when Audrey asked Jimmie if he did not think Green, the chauffeur, guilty. Jimmie asked her reasons.

"Yes--if you can without seeming unduly inquisitive! When we know that, and we know about the car, we shall get the whole thing into shape."

However, the next two days showed little progress. Jimmie was still "worrying" about that empty car. Whoever drove it was not far away when the crime was committed and left soon after. To determine the driver was important.

When Jimmie depressed and ranking found him depressed and ranking, the story told by Vincent Blake had been verified as far as possible. That he could have committed the crime was admitted, but this was true of Gresham or Green. The superintendent, still believing Netherton and Marjorie guilty, explained that they were on their guard and no longer met.

Jimmie did not tell him of Bill's engagement to Audrey Winford. It was their secret and they must divulge it when they saw fit.

Meanwhile the delay affected matrimonial plans. Evelyn told Jimmie that she and Duckworth would not wed until all the troubles were over. The singer, she said, had canceled his engagements in the nearby theatre so as to avoid criticism and to be near her. Jimmie, talking with Audrey, learned that she had suggested to Bill that their engagement be announced and that they be married at once.

"He said--" Her hesitancy veiled deep feeling. "Well, he was Bill. He said he would not drag me into trouble and put the engagement off until things cleared."

"Perhaps he is right," Jimmie consoled. "As he sees it, it would be cowardly to proclaim it now."

She had asked Bill about his meetings with Marjorie and his call on Stirling, and her voice faltered as she repeated his answer. "We are not engaged now, Audrey. So you have no right to ask me. Trust me if you can."

"Did you point out that the broken engagement left him free to marry Marjorie?" Jimmie's question struck her like a blow.

"No, Mr. Haswell. Is that your idea of love?"

"Forgive me," he said and when she smiled back he added, "Now, will you try to find out who owned that empty car?"

(Copyright, 1931, J. E. Lippincott Co.)

Marjorie almost reveals her thoughts to Jimmie in tomorrow's chapter, but her defiant attitude returns again.

COUNCIL WILL GIVE STUDY TO POWER MEASURE

Aldermen to Discuss Power Bill at Next Meeting, They Decide

Kaukauna — Power bills, which will affect the city utility of Kaukauna if passed, will be studied by the city council at its next meeting. It was decided by the aldermen at an adjourned meeting Tuesday evening in the council rooms of the municipal building.

The matter was brought to the attention of the council by Alderman William Carnot. He stated he read an article recently which gave him the impression that Kaukauna is opposed to a bill relating to the establishment of power districts in the state. He asked that the bills be brought to the council for an expression of views. Joseph LeFevre, city attorney, and Herbert Weckwerth, head of the city utilities department, were at Madison recently in regard to the matter.

Attorney LeFevre explained that they appeared at a committee meeting and that the language used in the power district bill gave the power district, after being formed, the power to condemn a municipal utility. The power district would be controlled by five directors who would operate the plants. The city objects to the bill from this standpoint, Mr. LeFevre explained. The committee pointed out that the bill has been amended to change this. The city of Kaukauna is in favor of the power district bill as amended, Mr. LeFevre said.

STICKERS

Arrange the mixed up group of letters and figures shown above, in such a way that they will form a sensible sentence. They may be joined together, or treated in any way that you wish, provided all are utilized.

(The correct answer will be printed in tomorrow's paper.)

Yesterday's Sticker Solved

The problem of dividing $7000 among three servants, in proportion to each one's length of service, the butler having worked three times as long as the cook and the chauffeur twice as long as the butler, is solved thus: The chauffeur served six times as long as the cook and the butler three times as long as the cook. Thus the legacy should be divided into 10 portions of $700 each. The chauffeur received six portions, or $4200; the butler three portions, or $2100, and the cook one portion, or $700.

COOPERATIVE PLAN OF MARKETING IS HELD ECONOMICAL

It's Cheaper Than Individual or Collective Systems, Experts Claim

Judging from comparisons of the individual, collective and cooperative marketing of livestock by farmers, the cooperative plan is the most economical and profitable of the three to farmers.

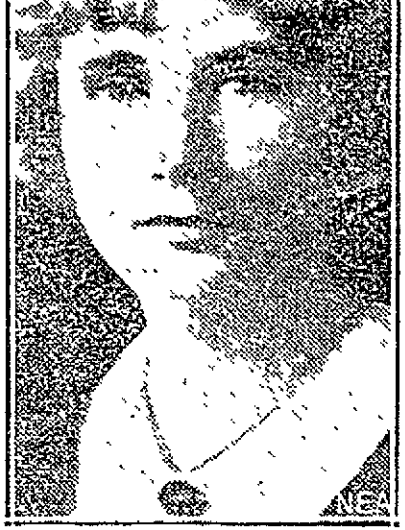

The cooperative plan can not be efficient unless the members are bound together by a long term contract to insure volume, shipping and filling cars on regular dates, and to prevent some farmers from selling their best grades of livestock individually and the culls through their own cooperative.

The past year a number of farmers' livestock cooperatives were broken up by the members shipping their livestock to central markets in trucks sent out by commission men and packers to divert the livestock and to break up farmers' shipping associations. These trucks shipped only on the shipping association whose members were not bound to gether by individual contracts.

The contract that will save all farmers' livestock shipping associations from disintegration is one prepared by the State Department of Agriculture and Markets. It is a copy of the contract that kept up the price of tobacco and has made a great success of the Northern Tobacco Pool. It is one that members of the Pure Milk Products' Cooperative are now signing.

Without this contract or some other equally effective it is simply impossible for farmers to market their products cooperatively as thousands of trucks and buying cooperatives are trying to break up farmers' marketing cooperatives.

The owners of these five truck loads of hogs will not repeat their costly blunder if they sign the contract of their nearest livestock cooperative marketing association.

FIELD MEN SIGN UP SUGAR BEET GROWERS

Menominee River Company to Cut Acreage from 12,000 to 8,000 Acres

On Monday morning all fear of sugar beet growers and other farmers that the local plant of the Menominee River Sugar company would not resume the manufacture of beet sugar next fall and that the 12,000 acres of land used in the growing of sugar beets for the company last summer to be turned into raising some other cash crop was allayed by the fieldmen appearing in the various localities among growers and signing up acreages for next spring's plantings.

The growers of beets were discouraged by the fact that the price of cane sugar on the New York market is only $4.50 per hundred pounds and that they are forced to compete with that low price.

The Menominee Falls plant, according to the present plans of the company will remain closed and all the sugar manufacturing of the company will be done next fall in the Green Bay plant.

The beet acreage of the company, however, will be cut down from 12,000 acres last year to 8,000 acres this year. This curtailing of the usual acreage will mean that the first come of the growers will be the first served by the company.

It is reported that the Janesville sugar plant that cut up a crop of 4,500 acres of beets last year is to sign up a smaller acreage the coming year.

The consensus of sugar beet growers is that if their industry is to be saved it must have tariff protection.

PRESCRIPTION for Constipation tested by 47 YEARS' PRACTICE

THERE'S one way to help the bowels that is safe, and sure. It empties them of all the poisonous waste without doing any harm. Its action is thorough but so gentle that it never causes the least discomfort.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin always does the work, and it leaves you feeling fine. You can take it freely, reducing the amount as the bowels grow stronger.

If you feel sluggish, can't eat, have dull headaches, feel tired, weak and run-down, this famous doctor's prescription will help get rid of the waste that is probably clogging your system. If the children have coated tongue or bad breath; if they seem bilious, fretful, upset, give them a little Syrup Pepsin, too. It tastes so good they'll like it, and it can't hurt them. Its gentle aid is ideal for women.

By taking a little at those times when they are most likely to be constipated, they can avoid much discomfort. Its mild but thorough action commends it to older men and women, too.

Dr. Caldwell specialized on the bowels. His prescription of laxative herbs, pure Pepsin and other ingredients has been tested by 47 years' practice. Get a bottle from your druggist. Take some next time you feel the need. Then you'll know why "Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin" is the family laxative of millions.
